DEADLOCK IN THE SIXTH.

Bankhead Has Three to Fight and It Is a Hard Job. Guin, Ala., September 4. (Special.)— Probably the hardest fight in any congresional district in the state for the nomination of a congressman will be in this, the sixth. A determined set of delegates are on hand, and express themselves as being here to stay. They have brought win ter clothing along, and frost may overtake them here. Four ballots have been taken and nothing done, although Bankhead is still in the lead, and the strongest candidate. The convention opened this afternoon at 2 o'clock. H. M. Judge, of Greene, was at 2 o'clock. H. M. Judge, of Greene, was elected chairman, with Sam J. Carpenter as secretary. A committee upon credentials was appointed, with E. D. Willett of Pickens as chairman. Fifty-two delegates were recognized. A committee upon the order of business was appointed, with W. the order of business agreed upon. When the balloting began, Bankhead received on the first ballot 12 2-3, Foster, Long and Chap-man 11 and a fraction each. The second ballot was taken with the same result, when the convention adjourned to meet at 8 o'clock this evening. At the appointed time the convention met, and balloting was resumed, the third ballot resulting the

the Burned Area.

Duluth, Minn., September 4.-In a stretch of territory twenty-six miles long and from one to fifteen mile wide not a single human habitation has been left standing except a section house at Miller, and in every part of the track of the flames bodies of men, women, children, borses and cattle were found. The position of every body found outside of Hinckley shows that shelter of some kind was sought by the agon-ized sufferers, and the dead are found in holes, behind overturned stumps, trees, marshy depressions, and in every water

The general shape of the fire-swept district is like a huge cigar, with a southwestern end about Mission Creek and the upper terminal, a few miles east of Finlayson, or Rutledge. Brom this a number of branches extend northward to beyond the tracks of the Eastern Minnesota railway. The work of the flames has been complete and cyclonic in character. Where the fire held sway, not a single tree is standing, except as a blackened stump. Thousands of overturned trees are lying prostrate, and the roots were burning fiercely up to last evening, when the welcome rain fell. A careful canvass reveals the fact that seventy-two settlers' homes, outside of towns, fell. As near as can be learned, there were 500 people in these homes. At Brookdale, a little town on the Eastern Minnesota railroad, south of Hinckley, about ninety persons took refuge in the water of a small creek. Out of this place sixty-seven dead bodies were taken and buried, and some thirty living persons were

All the way down the trainmen almost had to thrown people off who wished to go along and take in the grave sights. The correspondent found that notwith-standing the reports received, matters re-lating to the number and condition of the wounded and the necessity for supplies had been greatly exaggerated so far as Pine City was concerned. Instead of 200 wounded to be cared for there were a bare twenty, and many of these had not been seriously hurt. All the injured have been brought in, too, and it was learned that even those at Duluth scarcely outnumbered those at Pine City. It appears that it was a clean-cut case of either life or death. Most of those who escaped did so with little or no physical hurt. The most severe and dangerous cases in Pine City had been taken to the improvised hospital at the rink, and here nine of the medical relief corps set to work while the other two went to Hinckley. Only about twelve patients were being cared for at the rink, but all in all, they presented a pitiful and heartrending spectacle

Nearly all the patients are Scandinavians. Two women who lost all their relatives are maniacs, as well as dangerously burned. Between Pine City and Hinckley the country was swept bare of everything living or green. At Hinckley only about a dozen of the tents put up by the state authorities were occupied. There is not a building left standing. Every person there was engaged in recovering, identifying or burying the Rain Has Checked the Flames.

Detroit, Mich., September 4.—Dispatches from the upper peninsula of Michigan show that the rainfall in that region yesterday and last night has effectually put a stop to the forest fires, and will be the neans of saving millions of pine and lots of homesteaders' crops and houses. The damage already done, however, is immense and in many localities total loss can only be avoided by the immediate cutting of timber. There is considerable evidence that many of the fires which are of incendiary origin, were set by men who knew that the scorched pine would have to be cut, at once, thus giving them work. The flames will also force into the market much pine that washeld by non-logging capitalists for the purpose of speculation. At any rate nundreds of men will be given immediate employment. It is thought nearly every employment. It is thought nearly every foot of standing pine in Ontanoganon couty is burned-fully 500,000,000 feet. The Nester estate has lost 90,000,000; Trout Creek Lumber company, 20,000,000; Diamond Match Company, 150,000,000. The balance is owned by homesteaders at Paynesville and Bruce's Crossing.

Many cattle and horses were burned, but no human lives were lost, though there have been many perilous situations and narrow escapes.

The railroads have large gangs at repairing road-beds and bridges, and are rapidly getting into shape to resume traffic. Counting the Dead Bodies.

Pine City, Minn., September 4.—The general executive committee in charge of the relief work in this section has made a report of the dead bodies recovered thus far, as follows: Hinckley, 271; Sandstone, 77; Miller (often called Sandstone Junction), 12; Pokoma, 25; in lumber camps, 50. Total 450. Robbing the Dead.

Ghouls are at work in the vicinity of Sandstone. A party from Duluth, under James Bailey, came down to help bury the dead, and while searching around at noon came upon a gang who had broken open and rifled some safes, and when Bailey and his party met them they had just found a cistern from which they had hauled fifteen dead bodies and robbed them of jewelry-rings, trinkets, etc.,-and were throwing the bodies back into the well. Bailey and his party were unarmed, but the ghouls took to their heels and escaped. A frame powder magazine at Sandstone, a portion of which was left standing, and which was empty, was torn down Suspected Spies Surrendered to the Chinese by an American Consul. London, September 4.—A dispatch from Shanghal to the Central News says a large number of Chinese recruits are arriving at Tien-Tsin, where they are receiving their arms and equipments. The province of Shan-Tung is showing much discontent and little or no sympathy with the war against Japan, and is withholding the men and supplies which have been demanded of that section of the country. The authorities of the province, speaking in the name of the innabitants, regard the war-like actions of Japan as directed against the government, and not against the people of China. On the contrary, the people of Manchuria are intensely arti-foreign and urge the most active opposition to the Japanese.

QUITS THE PARTY.

Senator Jones, of Revada, Withdraws from the Republican Organization.

IS TOO ANTI-SILVER FOR H His Letter of Withdrawal Is Now on Its Way West.

IS A FINANCIAL AUTHORITY

Although an Owner of Gold Mines He Wants the Coinage of Silver Made Free, Believing It the Best Policy.

Washington, September 4.-(Special.)-Senator Jones, of Nevada, will no longer affiliate with the republican party while it is an enemy of silver, as he claims it is at the present time. It leaked out today that one of the most level-headed silver men on the republican side of the chamber had become disgusted with the course his party has pursued on the silver question and would, therefore, follow in the footsteps of his colleague, Senator Stewart, in withdrawing from the republican party and becoming a member of the political organiza tion which would make its fight on silver. It has been feared for several months that Senator Jones might take this course. Some of the leading republican senators have labored with him industriously for the past few weeks in order to prevent him from taking the course that he has with no success, according to information that The Constitution's correspondent recured today.

When the rumor first got abroad Senator Stewart was the first man seen who was likely to have any knowledge in reference to the matter. "Is it true?" he was asked, "that Senator

Jones is to leave the republican party and join the populist ranks?" The white-bearded Nevada silverite smiled good naturedly. "See Jones," he

Because of the fact that it was understood that Mr. Jones was to leave Washington early this afternoon it was pointed out to Senator Stewart that it was impossible to get Mr. Jones's views regarding this alleged political flop.

Then Senator Stewart said: "I do not want to talk for Jones, but I want you to see him and find out what course he is going to pursue. Personally, I know that within two days, as I understand it, the announcement will be made public from Nevada. The letter is on the way to that state from Senator Jones, in which, in no uncertain tones, he gives his reason for leaving the republican party." "In your opinion, why does he find it necessary to leave the republican party?"

was another question put to Mr. Stewart. "His reasons are very good," continued the well-known silverite. "He is a free silver man. He is an out-and-out advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. The republican party has not yet shown any disposition to recognize silver, and being a silver man, the only course is to join the party that announces that its organization is for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and will fight the battle on these lines until silver is recog-

Later I found Senator Jones. He admit ted that the story in circulation regarding his proposed political change was true "I do not care to have anything to say about it here," he stated. "I have written a letter to the chairman of the republican state central committee of Nevada, which will thoroughly outline my views, and until this letter is made public I do not care to say anything myself, and neither do I care to have anything printed regarding

Nothing more definite than this could be secured from Mr. Jones today. He left for New York this afternoon and will not return to Washington until after his letter to the chairman of the republican state central committee of Nevada is given to the public. The fact that Mr. Jones is going to desert the republicans in the senate, of course, lessens their vote in tha branch by one. Ordinarily it is presumed however, that Mr. Jones will act with his former republican associates on all issues, unless it is in the interest of the white metal, when he would join with the populists or democrats. This desertion, even though it might have been expected, is the sensation of the day wherever known in the capital city. The Letter Itself. Washington, September 4.-Late tonight Senator Jones authorized the publication of his letter announcing his parting with the republican party. It is addressed to Enoch Strother, chairman of the republican state central committee of Nevada. Mr. Jones

"Having become fully convinced that the republican party organization is unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver at the American ratio of 16 to 1, or at all, except with the consent of foreign governments and at a ratio to be dictated by them, I have to announce that I can no longer act with that party. I have not arrived at this conclusion without extreme regret. It is always painful to sever associations of long standing, but fidelity to my own convictions always painful to sever associations of long standing, but fidelity to my own convictions and my imperative duty, as I see it, to the people of Nevada, who have long and greatly honored me, compel me to this course.

"To my constituents I need hardly say that whatever change has occurred in the relations between the republican party and myself is not a change in me. My opinions are in every respect what they have always been. I hold today with all the earnestness of the day of my election every one of the principles for prior support in the senate. I was for the fourth time honored by my constituents with a seat in that body. I abate not an lota of my convictions with reference to the beneficent influence on American industry of the policy of protection. A protective policy I regard merely as a means by which the people of the country may secure to themselves the doing of their own work in such volume and with such complete variety and perfect co-ordination of industries as to afford uninterrupted employment fon all. But, while fully convinced of the moral and material progress made possible for our people by their doing their own work, I am no less firmly of the conviction that in the absence of a monetary system that will admit of the quantity of money constantly keeping pace with the demand, it is in value to expect such progression."

Mr. Jones declares himself a protectionist, but he holds that tariff and all other issues are subordinate to the question of money

ARKANSAS AMENDMENTS ADOPTED. And the Democrats Carry the State by

Little Rock, Ark., September 4.—Returns from thirty-three counties indicate increased democratic majorities over two years ago, although the total vote will likely be 3 per cent less on account of the new election law. It is estimated that the democratic state ticket is elected by at least 25,000 majority. Returns show a decrease in the vote for both the republican and populist tickets, while the populist ticket is third in the race. The republican and populist vote was much smaller than anticipated. Increased Majorities.

The amendments to the state constitution were voted on and adopted beyond a doubt. Amendment No. 3, to empower courts to Amendment No. 3, to empower courts to levy a special tax, not exceeding three mills, for the purpose of building and repairing roads, building court houses, jails, bridges and other internal improvements and for no other purpose.

Amendment No. 4, to abolish special elections and toguthorize the governor to fill

Populists Were Badly Beaten. As far as heard from the populists have not carried a single county in this state. The only showing they made was in Nevada county, the home of Congressman Mo-Rae, where they captured a few local of-fices. The majority for the state democratic ticket will undoubtedly exceed that of two years ago. The democrats have regained a number of counties. Remmel, republican, will lead, Barber, populist, by wo to one. Newport, the county seat of Jackson county, which usually gives a democratic ma-jority of 1,200, gave Remmel a majority of 21 yestercay. Newport is Remmel's home. Chairman Armstrong, of the democratic state central committee, said tonight that the entire vote of the state wil hardly ex-teed 105,000. Two years ago 156,000 votes were cast. This county gave the demo-cratic ticket 1,500 majority. The republicratic ticket 1,300 majority. The republicans refused to support the populists and voted with the democrats, with the exception of Remmel, their only nominee. The total vote of the county was only 3,450, while there were over 5,800 poll taxes paid. The state democrats will have about 25,-

VERMONT ELECTION. Republicans Carry the State, Making

Large Gains. Montpeller, Vt., September 4.—Vermont is today holding a state election, and, from present appearances, a large vote will be polled. A full state ticket, members of the egislature and two congressmen are to be elected, and there are four tickets in the field for all except the congressional race, nominations having been made by the populists and prohibitionists as well as by the republicans and democrats.

The republican majority for governor in the last election was over 17,000.

Returns from fity-four towns show a gain in the total republican vote of 2,054 over 1890, while the democratic lose 1,380. If the same ratio paid is maintained in the remaining towns, the republican's majority will exceed 25,000 in the state.

The republican candidates for state offices and congressmen probably elected in Vermont today are as follows: For governor, Urban A. Woodbury, of Burlington; lieutenant governor, Sephar M. Mansur, of Brighton; state treasurer, Henry F. Field, of Rutland; secretary of state, Chauncey W. Brownell, of Burlington; state auditor, Franklin D. Hale, of Lunenburg. Henry Powers, of Morristown; second dis-

The Kansas Congressman Makes a Speech at Wichita. Wichita, Kan., September 4.—Congress-man Jerry Simpson opened his campaign here last night. He appeared remarkably weil and spoke with a strong voice and without apparent effort. He devoted most of his time to the "republican enemy," charging the republican minority in congress with responsibility for much of the legislation of the fifty-third congress. To the populist members he credited the income tax annex and said it was the only measure passed in the interest of the masses and he alleged that the people could expect no relief unless they elected populist congressmen who are pledged to give the country a currency based not only on gold and silver, but on all the wealth of all the people of all the land. Mr. Simpson spoke heartily of woman suffrage. A BLOODY CAMPAIGN.

Camdenites Interrupt Opposition Dunlow, W. Va., September 4.—While ex-Governor Wilson was addressing a big democratic meeting here this afternoon, the Camdenites followed Marshal Vinson's tactics of the past month and interrupted the speaker. Mr. Wilson's friends attempt ed to eject them, when a bloody fight followed. A hundred revolvers were fired at the same time. Two shots barely missed Mr. Wilson, one passing through his hair. The disturbance was finally quieted, and Mr. Wilson continued his address without further interruption. Among those shot was J. W. Frizzle, who died tonight. Tobias Ferguson is said to be mortally wounded. It is now asserted that United States deputies fired upon the crowd

The Attorney General Says the Company Has Forfeited Its Charter.

Chicago, September 4.—Attorney General Malloney is still after the Pullman Palace Car Company. He has notified its attorney that he will appear before Judge Gibbons tomorrow and ask leave to file the amended petition in the quo warranto proceedings in which the company is asked to show cause why it should not forfeit its charter. The reasons given are that the company sells gas and water without proper authority, and also does a good business in supplying steam heat to residences at a large price. The company's right to speculate in lands is dealed, as its privilege of operating a water plant. The saie of liquor at the Pullman hotel is held to be a direct violation of the law. In addition to these charges the pharges in the original petition are renewed.

The Donglasville New South Making Charges Against Watson.

HE WRITES A SCORCHING EDITORIAL

Editor Peary Says That the Wor Has No More Than Begun-He Prom-ises More Fun.

f Editor Tom Watson has pulled his knife From his boot and yesterday the editorial page of The Daily Press fairly bristled with fight and challenge to fight. He was answering Editors Barnes and Peavy, of The New South, of Douglasville. and his column and a half editorial of yes terday is merely the beginning of what omises to be the liveliest editorial controversy of recent months.

Last week's issue of The New South has some very hard things about the leader of the populists. He was charged with having ousted Colonel Peek and many other things. In what is quite the hottest editorial that he has yet written, Mr. Watson answers ll the charges that were made against him, taking them up one by one. He de-nounces them all as false. He says that he has never received a cent for speaking but, on the contrary, is more than $2,000 behind in that respect. He says he gets $25 a week for his editorial work on both of the populist papers—the smallest salary of any editor in the country. He says the stories that he and Colonel Peek are enemies are untrue; that they are partners in empanies. He also says that it is that he has had a quarrel with Judge Hines.

He says that the writer of The New South's article tried to get a position on The Daily Press, and that he would not employ him. At the time that the writer was hunting for the job, he says that all these startling facts that are now being printed were known to him. He says he can't understand how the young man would have accapted a position under him under

DEMPSEY IN NEW ORLEANS. Fitzsimmons Will Be in Jack's Corner

During Tonight's Fight. New Orleans, La., September 4.—There was a large crowd of Athletic Club men at the depot this morning, headed by Captain Frank Williams, Mike and Joseph Spori, representing the Auditorium, to welcom Jack Dempsey who will have a twenty round scientific glove contest with the Australian Billy McCarthy Wednesday night. Dempsey has accepted the hospitality of the Young Men's Gymnasium Club, and will make his headquarters there during his stay in the city. He is in first-class condition, and weighs 140 pounds. Bob Fitzsimmons who, by the way, will be in Dempsey's corner tomorrow night, predicts that he will win. McCarthy is pursuing the even tenor of his way at his training quarters at Wine-man gardens, and is confident of winning the $2,000 purse by his great strength and hard hitting powers. But whether that will overcome the superior science which will have plenty of strength behind it on the person of the ambitious Dempsey is a question that will be determined on Wednesday evening in the Auditorium arena. A few bets are said to have been made as follows: Dempsey 12, McCarthy 10.

While speaking of Fitzsimmons and Corbett, Dempsey readily gave it as his opinion that the former is the only man living that can give Corbett a good fight and make the champion know he has had the hardest

CHARLESTON COMMERCIALLY)

Notwithstanding the Dispensary Law a Fair Business Was Done. Charleston, S. C., September 4.—The News and Courier will publish tomorrow its annual review of the trade and commerce Charleston for the commercial year ending August 31st.

The year has been one of unprecedented trial, yet the report shows that Charleston has held its own remarkably well. The storm in August, 1893, laid waste hundreds of miles of territory directly tributary to this market, and deprived Charleston of a rich and remunerative trade. The rice crops were almost totally destroyed, and the sea island cotton crop was nearly all lost and the turpentine forests were blown down for miles and the river phosphate mining companies so badly damaged that they could not operate for more than half the year. The dispensary liquor law drove a great deal of capital from the city and destroyed a hitherto lucrative busi general depression throughout the country also affected the trade of the city. But, in spite of all these calamities and drawbacks, the trade of Charleston shows a falling off of only about three and a half million dol-lars as compared with the preceding year. The aggregate value of the business of the city is more than seventy-one million dollars. This, under the circumstances, is a completion of the letties makes Charleston one of the finest deep-water ports in the world, and insures to this city a great increase in its foreign trade. Ships drawing twenty-three feet of water can now cros the bar with safety.

The government work on the jettles ha been most successful, and Captain F. V. Abbott, the engineer in charge, says that there is every reason to anticipate that the full depth of twenty-six feet contemplated by the project will be attained with less expenditure than the amount of the esti-

During the year, he says, 1,079,000 cubic yards of matter have disappeared from between the jettles and the areas about their landward and seaward ends. This gain in waterway, or decrease of obstruc ting matter, he adds, equals the whole amount that was gained from 1884 to 1893 The completion of the jettles will lead in the near future to the establishment of direct steamship lines to Europe and to the Improvement of the terminal facilities of the port, already the finest on the south New cotton and exporting firms will do business here this year, and it is expected that there will be a large increase in the cotton receipts of the port. Last year the cotton receipts exceeded those of the previous year by more than one hundred thousand hales.

The News and Courier will also publish tomorrow letters from its correspondents in all parts of the state, describing the condition of the agricultural and indus interests. These letters, with very few exceptions, are pleasingly monotonous in their statement of the better condition of the farmers and in attributing the cause to the forced economy consequent ways to economy consequent upon the the forced economy consequent upon the disasters of the previous year and the increased attention paid to cereal products, induced by the low price of cotton. The same reasons have also led to more attention being paid to the raising of hogs and other live stock. "If we are to accept the concurrent testimony of so many persons in so many varied localities, South Carolina was never so well prepared to supply its own hog and hominy as it is today. In some parts of the state people are raising their own hog and hominy as it is today. In some parts of the state people are raising their horses and mules and cattle, and supplying themselves with beef, butter and milk. In the upper tier of counties wheat and oats, as well as corn, are available as food crops. Tobacco and truck farms and orchards have also come into favor, and diversified farming and extensive oultivation have apparently come to South Carolina to stay."

monstrosity, and will be a lasting reflection on the judgment of the board of education. If education is of any value at all, it is to adduce such qualities and surroundings as are in conformity with good taste, and I think, among well-informed people, bad taste in architecture is more offensive than unconventional manners or incorrect speaking or writing. So it is of the greatest advantage that children should have training and correct architectural forms. To debauch children's taste is about as bad as to debauch their morals, as taste and morals can hardly be separated.

"Believing that the board came to its decision without thorough examination into the designs submitted. I rejectfully request that you will allow me a hearing before the board. I feel sure that the result would be a reconsideration of your decision, as the plan submitted by myself should be accepted on account of less cost, superior appointment, better ventilation and greater safety in case of fire, and on account of its architectural merit.

"As this is a matter of high public importance, I respectfully urge this request and ask you to lay it before the board at your earliest convenience. Not having seen any other plans, what I have said refers only to the plans adopted. There may be other plans of more merit than mine.

It was the picture, maybe, that caught the members of the committee which awarded the contract. Why, take the second to the first floor there is but one, you may say, while from the third to the second there are two. Suppose all of those who might happen to be on the third floor should rush for an escape. On the second floor they would be joined or augmented by all on that floor. The reverse should be the case. Then, the way the designs read, a great deal of good space is lost that might be utilized, while the plan of ventilation is bad." plan of ventilation is bad."

The building committee of the board have heard the complaints, but are rocking along smoothly, awaiting the coming of Monday, when the bids for the construction of the buildings will be opened at Major. Slaton's office in the Girls' High school building.

"The truth is," said Captain J. C. Hendrix, chairman of that committee, yesterday, "the members of the committee are more than ever pleased with the plans. They give us one of the finest and most per-the committee of the board of education plans from eight architects for the new building, and that for nearly a month the committee held the award in abeyance, so difficult was it to select from the eight designs submitted. Last week, however, the end came, and the world was informed that the plans of Golucke & Stewart, the well-known architects, were mos satisfactory to the committee, and the other seven were rejected. The plans were presented to the public in the Constitution, and the readers were pleased with the promised high school building, and the building committee of the board went ahead to ask for bids for the work, the bids to be opened next Monday at the ment, in which were classrooms for night schools. In fact, to the mind of the building committee, it was just what Atlanta wanted for her coming young men to train mentlly in, and it was a bouquet each member threw at himself when the decision templated building. Of all the plans, all called for a three-story structure except rchitects of the city.

But while the members of the building days quite a little stir has been going on

One of the architects has even written letter to Mr. D. A. Beatle, president of the board of education, in which he cites his

the pen of Mr. Godfrey L. Norrman, and reads:

"Atlanta, Ga., August 25, 1894.—Mr. D. A. Beatle, City, Dear Sir: The plans for the Boys' High school were shown me yesterday. By Captain Hendrix, and I find—
"I. That the size of the building is much larger than the plans submitted by me, which will make it cost at least $5,000 more than my plan would have cost, and yet it has not as many appointments, which shows that there is a great deal of waste space in the plan accepted.

"2. The ventilation is not as good, as only corner rooms in the accepted plan have windows on more than one side.

"3. The accepted plan being four stories, makes it very much more inconvenient, and besides makes it very dangerous in case of fire, not only on account of its extra height; but on account of the stairway running zigzag so that one flight of stair does not come over the one below; especially so with the stairway leading to the public hall. So entirely different plans will have to be made, as the fire department and building inspectors will doubtless condemn the plan on account of the great fire risk.

"4. The hall cannot be constructed without using columns to support the celling, and is not high enough for a gymnasium, which will make it practically useless.

"5. The design is an architectural Like Mr. Norrman, other architects of the city spoke, some saying that the plans accepted would cost the city in the construction of the building something like $10,000 more than other plans would have cost, plans, too, which are, as they say, superior in these accepted.

TROUBLE BREWING IN HAYTI. Hippolyte Makes a Speech Warning His Enemies.

New York, September 4.-The steamer Alisa, from Port Limon, arrived in port this morning. On her voyage she stopped at Kingston, Jamaica, and Port-au-Prince. It was stated by an officer on board that affairs politically were seemingly quiet there, but at the same time a revolutionary bubble was growing which was liable to burst at any time. There is much discon-tent at the methods of President Hippolyte and his enemies are continually plotting against him with the hope of placing Man-tigant at the head of the government. The latter is at Kingston, penniless and dependent wholly upon the bounty of his friends. The Kingston Daily Gleaner, of August list, prints a speech delivered by Hir in Port-au-Prince on August 5th. The article is headed "Hippolyte to His Enemies In very plain terms the black ruler warns his foes that any astempts upon his life or against the government will cost them their lives at once, and the cabled dispatches from Kingston, printed this morn-ing, stating that five men had been shot without the formality of a court martial for inciting revolution, show that Hippolyte

It should be stated that the republicans are now contesting the legality of the eight box and registration laws of the state," and if these laws are declared constitutional, might not the legislature elected under them, and which, in turn, elects a United States senator, also be unconstitutional. Damocratic Orators Expound the Doctrine All Over the State.

HOW THEY CONSTRUE THE PLATFORM Chairman Clay Comes Out Plainly for a 16 to 1 Ratio.

SOMETHING OF A BOMB TO GOLDBUGS

In Many a County the Orators Strangth-ened the Wavering-1t Was a Sort of Political Pionic.

Madison, Ga., September 4.-(Special.) This was a field day for democracy in Morgan county. One of the largest crowds that has ever assembled in the courthouse was here. Mr. A. S. Clay, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, was the speaker. Every nook and corner of the building was filled and many had to be turned away because they could not find even standing room.

Mr. Clay was eloquently introduced by Judge H. W. Baldwin, chairman of the democratic executive committee of the county. Mr. Clay was greeted by rounds of applause from the hundreds of democrats present. For more than two hours Mr. Clay held the undivided attention of the audience. He kept them away from their dinners, also. He took up the populist platform and completely riddled it, making several enthusiastic populists publicly acknowledge their platform was wrong. He reviewed the democratic party's record, and wound up by announcing that he was in favor of the free comage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one. This announcement met with the most enthusiastic endorsement possible in the shape of vociferous applause from his sympathetic audience. He declared this to be his interpretation of the Chicago and Georgia platforms, and said the democratic party is committed to the free coinage of silver.

Mr. Clay's declaration of his position fell like a bomb into the small camp of goldbugs here, but was heartily endorsed by the largest audience which ever assembled in this courthouse. Mr. Clay's speech has done much for democracy in this section. Although plied with volleys of questions from members of the people's party today, he met their onslaught with the fines

Joint Debate in Jackson.

Harmony Grove, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)—There was a joint debate at Jefferson between Major William Simmons and onel James Mahaffy, the populist candidate for attorney general. Major Simmons opened in an hour-and-a-half speech, in which he preached pure democracy. Colonel Mahaffy replied for two hours. Major Simmons closed in half an hour's speech, in which he fairly riddled his opponent's arguments. The major cornered Colonel Mahaffy when he asked him if he was willing for the negro to hold office and to sit in the jury box, to which Colonel Mahaffy re plied in the negative.

Governor Northen in Gordon Calhoun, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)—Messrs. Lewis F. Garrard, A. O. Bacon and Glenn have delivered telling der cratic speeches in this county recently. Today Governor Northen spoke to a large audience. He denounced some of the theories as taught by the populist leaders in several years.

At Oglethorpe. Oglethorpe, Ga., September 4.~(Special.) Colonels W. M. Hammond, of Thomasville, and W. M. Hawkes, of Americus, addressed several hundred democrats and a sprinkling of populists here today. Colonel Hammond's darts at the populists were telling. Colonel Hawkes received flattering attention and charmed his hearers. Both speeches created deep enthusiasm and had the much desired effect.

Messrs, Cabaniss and Glenn. Fayetteville, Ga., September 4.—(Special.) Messrs. W. C. Glenn and T. B. Cabaniss addressed an enthusiastic audience of 350 lemocrats here today. Both argued in favor of the gold standard and were severe in strictures on silver democrats. Mr. Whitaker, the populist nominee for congress, speaks here with Mr. Robert Berner September 8th.

Joint Debate in Ware. Waycross, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)— It has been decided by the executive com-mittee of the democratic and populistic parties that there will be a joint discussion and a barbecue here on Saturday, September 22d. Arrangements will be made for the accommodation of 5,000 persons and the railroads will give reduced rates to Way-cross on that day. The meeting will be presided over by Warren Lott, chairman of the democratic executive committee. The democrats have invited Messrs. Turner, At-kinson, Clay and Berner to address the meeting. The populists have agreed to have speeches from Judge Hines or Mr. Watson and Dr. S. W. Johnson. It is scarcely beeved by the democrats that Dr. Johnson will be here, as he stated positively to several democrats at Pate Lee's mill pond recently that he would not meet Mr. Turner on the stump in this campaign. The meeting will be well advertised throughout south

A Meeting at Millen. Millen, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)—To-day the democrats of this section had an enthusiastic rally in Millen. The speakers were E. H. Calloway and W. H. Davis, of Waynesboro, and U. P. Wade, of Sylvania. A committee of the countles of Screvep, Burke, Emanuel and Bulloch appointed September 19th as the day for a big democratic rally and barbecue to take place at Millen. The members of the executive committee to make arrangements for the event are Messrs W. O. Hadley, W. M. Brinson, O. H. Brinson, C. E. Attaway, R. G. Daniel, H. W. Parker and G. W. Lester.

Black and Bacon. Warrenton, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)— This was a big day for the democracy of Warren. As had been previously announced, Major Bacon spoke here to a large crowd in the courthouse. His speech was strong, minly and courageous. It dealt in the most kindly terms with the men who had left the ranks of democracy and joined the populists. The speech was well received.

As Major Bacon closed he eloquently in roduced to the audience Hon. J. C. C. Black, the standard bearer from the tenth district. Major Black, when he mounted he stand, was welcomed with applau that was deafering. He gave a satisfac-tory account to his constituents of his stewardship while away. He spoke for two hours in defense of democracy and showed most plainly what democracy had done in the last congress.

Judge Lawson in Jasper. Monticello, Ga., September 4.-(Special.)-Judge Lawson expounded true democratic doctrine here today. He congratulated the party on the reforms achieved and pledged efforts along the same line. He fixed the wavering in their faith and brought many back.

Warmed Up in Montgo Mt. Vernon, Ga., September 4.- (Special.) A large mass meeting of democrats was held here yesterday. It was addressed by Messrs. Brantley, of Brunswick, Whitfield and Hudson, of Atlanta.

In Old Franklin. Lavonia, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)—
The democrats of the eastern portion of Franklin county have arranged for a public speaking and basket dinner at Avalon on September 15th and at Goodwill on September 22d. The citizens are anxious to have George C. Thomas at Avalon and H. W. J. Ham at Goodwill. Large crowds are expected. It looks as if old Franklin was going to redeem herself from partial populist rule. Democratic Primaries in Spalding. Griffin, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)—The result of today's county democratic primary was as follows: M. F. Morris, for sheriff; J. C. Brooks treasurer; W. J. Elder, tax receiver; P. H. Wells, tax collector; W. M. Thomas, clerk; T. R. Mills, J. A. J. Tidwell and D. L. Patrick, county commissioners; Tom Jordan, surveyor and W. T. Latta, coroner. The primary was the most exclung one ever held here. M Dawsonville.

Dawsonville, Ga., September 4.-(Special.) In the courthouse here today a fair crowd estimated at about 150, was well entertained for about two hours by Messrs. George L. Bell and W. F. Findley on the political issues of the day. Very few populists attended the speaking.

A GREAT DAY IN TROUP. The County Is on Record for Free

Silver. LaGrange, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)— Messrs. James Pitman and Tatum, nominees for the legislature from this county, Price Gilbert, of Muscogee, and Attorney General Terrell, spoke here today. The speeches of Messrs. Terrell and Tatum were necessarily cut short on account of time. To say that the third party fared badly at the hands of these stanch democrats would fail to express it. Mr. Pittman construed the state platform to mean the free and unlimited coinage of silver with the old ratio of 16 to 1. Mr. Gilbert insisted that the party should be maintained. Owing to the time left them the last two speakers never touched the money question. Troug county, however, is on record as being in county, however, is on record as being in favor of the 16 to 1 ratio. Colonel Terrell made a ringing speech and his references to Judge Crisp, especially, caused great enthusiasm. All of the speeches were enthusiastically received.

DECLINED TO ENDORSE. Glynn's Populists Discuss the Endorsement of a Democrat. Brunswick, Ga., September 4.—(Special.)— The populists of Glynn county, in response to a call, assembled last night to elect an executive committee. About eighty people were present. A committee of nearly twenwere present. A committee of nearly twenty was appointed with Colonel Frank H. Harris, permanent chairman, and John T. Abraham, permanent secretary. After a heated discussion, showing much division in the minds of the populists on the subject, a motion to endorse the democratic nominee for the legislature, Mr. W. A. Symons, was defeated. The meeting adjourned without nominating any candidates for office, and it is not probable that any candidates will be nominated in the future.

HIS COMPANY WISHES TO KEEP HIM

The Second Georgia Regiment Is Looking for a Major and the Judge Is Just the Man for the Place.

Macon, Ga., September 4,-(Special.)-An interesting question in military circles is, will Captain J. L. Hardeman, of the Floyd Rifles, accept the position of major of the Second Georgia regiment. The gen-eral impression has been that he would accept the majorship, but the Floyd Rifles are determined to do all in their power to keep him at the head of the company. He has been commander of the Rifles sixteen years, and the company is reluctant to give him up. His position as judge of the Macon circuit may interfere with him giving as close attention to the details of the captaincy as formerly, and this view of the matter may also force him to resign the command of the Rifles. Dr. Gregor Im Dead.

Dr. Gregor Im Dead. E. A. Gregory died this morning at the Welbourn house, after a sickness of a few hours. He was a Canadian by birth, and was known in Atlanta, where he has resided. He was a physician by professio but has not been engaged in the practice for some time. He came to Macon about six weeks ago to canvass for the Metro-politan Life Insurance Company. Last night, in company with a fellow canvasser he went to a restaurant and ate supper. He seemed in perfect health and good spirits. After supper he went to East Macon to write an insurance policy, and while in the act his hat dropped off, and he was seen to stagger. He attempted to write, but was unable to do so, and, shoving the paper aside, said he would have to do the work the next day. He then fell over unconscious. He was carried to the Welbourn and lingered in an unconscious condition until this morning, when he died. The cause of his death is said to have been

HIS FOLLOWERS WENT ARMED

Crops Were Neglected and the Negroe Would Not Even Take an Inter Politics-Several Persons Wounded.

Sparta, Ga., September 4.-(Special)-Much excitement exists in Hancock county about shooting affair on a large scale near Devereaux station last night. Anything like reliable facts is difficult. The scene of the shooting being several miles from here. Rev. B. F. Gaston, who claims to be an agent to procure negro emigrants for Liberia, was shot dangerously. Three or four more negroes were also wounded. Gaston has produced almost a reign of terror in the Devereaux settlement for two or three months past. His meetings were held there sometimes on Sunday, but oftener at night. It is said that from two to three housand negroes would assemble to listen to his extravagant representations about Africa. They always attended the night meetings armed with shotguns and Win-chesters. They had the roads guarded and it would halt persons on the road and otherwise annoy and vex them.

The negroes who opposed Gaston's scheme were the special enemies of himself and his followers. Gaston succeeded in deluding between two and three thousand into joining his emmigration scheme. From each one he collected one dollar, and so had in hand a spug fortune. The whole country, from the Greensboro road to Lin-ton, and extending westward to the Oconee iver, was completely demoralized and dom-inated by his influence. The negroes sold their little effects, quit their crops and got ready to go to Liberia. At the same time they became lawless and defiant. The white people in that section are among the best in the state. They reasoned with the negroes, and tried to induce them to go work. This the blacks refused to do. They refused also to enter into or have anything do with politics. Last night Gus Jenkins made an incendiary speech, and declared that his crowd had numbers and arms, and intended to use them. Gaston, on Sunday, is reported to have said that if the white people or any others wanted him and his crowd, they would find them out there in force all

Nothing can be learned about who did the shooting last night, except that the negroes present say it was done by both whites and negroes. It is said that Gaston and his crowd certainly did the first shooting. They opened the ball Gaston was struck in the forehead, but it was a glancing shot. Jenkin's wife was also hit, but not dangerously hurt. No one not in this county can know how much patience by the people, now how great has been their exasperation at the hands of this man and his followers for three

FOR A FAIR BALLOT.

Citizens of Cobb, Irrespective of Party, Are Interested. Marietta, Ga., September 4.-(Special.)-A large meeting of the citizens of Cobb was held today in the courthouse to take action looking to the securing of free ballots and fair counts in future elections. The meeting was the outgrowth of the populist nom-inating convention held here recently, which passed resolutions requesting that all po-litical parties meet here today to take some action about elections to be held. The courthouse was filled. Democrats, populists and republicans were present, and took part in the proceedings.

Colonel Charles D. Phillips was called to the chair, and Loring Neufville and W. S. N. Neal were chosen secretaries. A set of resolutions were introduced, and on being read, one by one, provided lively discussion. Some hints being made about the Fannin county primary, Colonel Phillips stated that he was there and knew that Judge Gober had nothing to do with it.

Mr. Clay was there also, and he may have exerted himself as actively for Atkinson as he, Phillips, did for Evans. Mr. James Sibley, the populist nominee for the legislature, explained that the resolutions were not Judge Gober had not intended as an attack on Judge Gober. A thoroughly good feeling prevailed betwee populists and democrats, and the meeting assumed dramatic proportions when Mr. John Sibley, by way of endorsing a plea for honest methods made by a veteran demo crat, Joel Green, shook hands with him before the applauding crowd. The following are the resolutions as

MR. COMER HAD THE VOTING POWER

How It Was Done at the Montgomer Meeting-Other News and Gossip of the Rail.

The outcome of the meeting of stockhold rs and directors of the Western Railroad of Alabama, held in Montgomery yesterday was no surprise.

The retirement of the present manage ment has long been looked for, it having been announced by co-Receiver Comer, of the Central, a year ago, that he would cast the majority vote in his hands against President Charles Phinizy and General Manager Tyler, believing such a policy to be for the best interests of the Central which holds the Louisville and Nashville a controlling interest in the road.

When this was announced a year ago it was something of a sensation, but it was a well-worn bit of railroad gossip when the time for the change drew nigh.

President Phinizy, General Manager Tyer and Mr. Comer arrived in Atlanta last night from Montgomery where they had been in attendance upon the meeting. There seems to have been considerable eeling in the affair, although all sides claim to have none over the result of the Colonel Phinizy's Side.

"I do think we were not created quite fairly about the matter," said Colonel Phinizy to The Constitution as he stood upor the platform of his private car last night. 'We were taken altogether by surprise. Mr. Comer did not notify us that such change was contemplated. I remarked upon it last night in Montgomery when I heard, for the first time, that I would be retired from the presidency of the road, and Mr. Comer came to me this morning and said he thought when he gave notice a year ago that such a change was contemplated, he thought it was notice enough. It is well known that the change was not made then, and that matters were allowed to settle down until it was really doubted that his intentions would ever be carried out. I went to the meeting totally uninformed as to the outsome. I had absolutely no word of notice that he intended to carry out his policy of changing the management by wielding the Centrai's majority voce to that end. "Mr. Comer says he did it without any personal feeling against me or Captain Tyler, and I presume that he is conscientious, and is doing what he thinks best for the Central and its properties. As for myself, I surely have no ill feeling against him and the interests he represents."

Captain Tyler will remain in charge of the road as general manager until the 1st of October, when he will retire with President Phinizy, and will go abroad.

Mr. Comer Talks. When Mr. Comer was seen last night at the Kimball he said he had voted the Central's holdings as he thought best for the properties. He said he was prompted solely by the motive of doing what he thought best for the interests he represented. He disclaimed any personal antagonism to President Phinizy or General Manager Tyler, but said that he thought without any disparagement of the management in the past that the road needed a different management. "How was it done?" he was asked. "Oh, well, it was simply this. The Central had a controlling interest of the stock and had a right to manage the property as ers_the Central and the Georgia. The Central owns sufficient stock of the Georgia to have the controlling vote in the manipulation of the Western Railway of Alabama, and in this way the Central made the change. There are but four votes in the meeting, and the Central has three of them. The Central owns three-fourths of the property." Wr Comer stated that a year asm he thought of making the change as was known at the time and says the reason he did not do it then was because he then wanted to put Major Shellman traffic man-ager of the Central in the place of the present management of the Western Rail-way of Alabama, but found that Major Shellman preferred to remain with the Central, and also that his place as traffic manager of the system could not be filled to satisfaction of the management. He said that he could not find a man to put in Major Shellman's place who would give en tire satisfaction even if Major Shellman had preferred to leave and take charge the Western of Alabama and the Atlanta and West Point. This was why he delayed the matter and had the meeting postponed time after time.

Mr. Comer himself presided over the Montgomery meeting. He was completely in charge of the situation, but claims that he did not act without the approval of President Milton H. Smith, of the Louisville and Nashville, which also has a great par of the holdings of the Montgomery line.

Mr. Smith the New President.

The man selected by the Central peopl to manage the Western Railway of Alabamand who will be put in charge likewise of course, of the Atlanta and West Point the other link of the Montgomery line, i Mr. George C. Smith.
Mr. Smith comes from the Missouri Pa cific railway system, with which he has been identified for the past thirteen years, with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo. He entered railway service with the International and Great Northern Railway years assistant to Captain R. S. Hayes (now co-receiver of the Georgia Central road) while first vice president of the Mis-souri Pacific system; afterwards in the same capacity with Vice Presidents Hoxie and Clark, of the same system, and for three years assistant general manager of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain railways at St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Smith is thirty-nine years of age and has many friends in the west and southwest, Mr. Smith Interviewed. The new president and general manager of the Western Railway of Alabama, was in Atlanta last night, having come over from Montgomery with Mr. Comer.

"Yes," said he to The Constitution, "I will take charge of the road about the 1st of October. It was quick work and I didn't dream of coming here ten days ago. I was in New York and met Mr. Comer. I had been on a little vacation out in California and had thought I would not go back to work for several weeks yet. I was notified that I would be wanted the lst of October that I would be wanted the let of October and came on direct to Savannah. A week ago I was catching black bass on the waters of Lake Michigan. Yesterday morning I was in Savannah, this morning in Montgomery and tonight in Atlanta. Thus you can see I have been whirling around right briskly and this being my first visit to Georgia everything is quite new to me. But, I will soon be here to get things straightened out and to familiarize myself with the interests of the road over which I am appointed to preside.

cointed to preside.
"I have been over the line and have found the excellent condition. The equipments are fine and the roadbed is in good shape. I am greatly pleased with the region of the south through which the road runs and I certainly find Atlanta to be just what I had heard it was—a live and progressive city."

When asked if there was any truth in the rumor that the headquarters of the Atlanta and West Point and the Western Railway of Alabama would be taken to Montgomery Mr. Smith said he had never heard any such report and the proposition to change the headquarters was entirely new to him.

Mr. Smith was brought to the consideration of Mr. Comer through the favorable recommendation of co-Receiver Hayes, of the Central, there being close relations between Mr. Smith and Mr. Hayes.

He is a most agreeable gentleman, companionable and cordial and has had wondrous experience in the railroad business.

lrous experience in the railroad l Something About the Road.

The Western Railway of Alabama and the Atlanta and West Point form the united ine of railways between Atlanta and Mont gomery with several branch lines in the state of Alabama. Under the management of President Phinizy and Captain Tyler these roads have prospered wondrously. They have paid dividends every year, and are the only roads in this region of the south today that are showing increased gross and net earnings in business. The roads are handsomely

As to Future Management. Mr. Smith will not affirm nor will he deny the report that all the officers of the Western of Alabama and the Atlanta and West Point will be rettred. Such a report was current yesterday and Mr. Smith, the new president, was asked about it last night.

"We will try to have good men in the offices," said he, "but I cannot say yet who they will be. There is no truth in the rubott have been marked out to go. All I can say about the future management of the roads is that I will issue a circular ef-fective the 1st of October naming officers of the various departments of the road, Mr. Turk in Town.

Mr. W. A. Turk, general passenger agent of the Southern railway, was here yester-He came in company with other traffic officials to look into the management of the Southern at this point—to see that the sails are set in the out-start, now that all the lines that are to compose the Southern have been bought in and the organization of the great system completed. Mr. Turk is greatly pleased with the way things have stated in Atlanta, and is glad to see the passenger department with head-quarters here jogging along so smoothly already.

He spent much of the day in the local offices inspecting the work and discussing plans wth Assistant General Passenger Agent Hardwick, as to future nipulations. Mr. Turk is one of the mos popular railroad men in the country, and his Atlanta friends are always glad to see him in town.

Mr. Baldwin Coming. Mr. W. H. Baldwin, third vice presitent of the Southern, is expected in Atlanta within the next few days, on a trip of inspection over the new lines recently added to the Southern. The late circular of Mr. Baldwin setting forth the complete policy of organizator of the work of operating the Southern, the division of territory, the handling of busi-ness about the yards, shops, and along the line, etc., has established the plan of the transportation department. He will have an easy task now that this work of organization has been completed, for he was capable men for the management. He will doubtless find things running along most nicely whenever he comes over the road. Mr. Baldwin thinks well of Atlanta as the great business center of the Southern railway system, and during his short term of office as third vice president of the company has won many good opinions among the people of this region of the

The "Sam" Road Is O. K. Colonel A. Pope, the well-known general freight agent of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery, came up from Americus press rate case before the state rallway

Colonel Pope has recently taken charg of the freight department of the "Sam" and is preparing to put forth his best efforts this fall and winter to pull for his full share of the southern traffic. He was secretary of the Southern Railway and Steam ship Association for a number of years, with headquarters in Atlanta, retiring the first of this year and going with the "Sam shortly afterwards.

Colonel Pope was talking over the out-ook for southern lines last night at the Kimball, and said: "It cannot be doubted by the man who its down to think it over but that the future is getting brighter for the railroads of the south. The crops this year have been favored with the best of seasons, and the farmers of the south Atlantic state are going to have one of the best harvests they ever claimed. The country is prosper-ous and the people are happy, and it naturally follows that the railroads will enjoy better times since their interests and the interests of the people are identical. "I am of the opinion that the freight traific of the roads at the south is going to show a vast increase this fall and winter over that of last season." Tickets Good Both Ways, Now that the old East Tennessee and the old Georgia Pacific are both under the same company and under the same system of that company, it will be of interest to those who make frequent trips to Lithia Springs and points out on that wing of the system that current tickets not expired by limitation bought over the old Georgia Pa-cific will be good over the old East Ten-nessee to and from the same points.

A ticket bought over the old East Tennessee to Austell is good to return over that line or over the Georgia Pacific, just as the purchaser may see fit to use it both of the lines running to the same point and now belonging to the same company.

ATLANTA, GA., September 5, 1894.

A Democratic Day. Yesterday was a democratic day throughout Georgia!

It was an admirable suggestion of Chairman Clay, of the state committee, that the first Tuesday in September be given over to democratic speakers in every part of Georgia. Following the suggestion engagements were made for well-known speakers to talk democracy in every section of the state. It is probable that not less than 30,000 people listened to democratic doctrine from the stump yesterday in Georgia. The addresses were well received, and the liberal response of the people to the announcement of the various rallies thoroughly indicates the fact that democrat ic enthusiasm is as great as ever, and that the democracy of Georgia will roll up its accustomed overwhelming major-

Hon. W. Y. Atkinson, the democratic nominee for governor, is making an active campaign, and the democracy is to be congratulated that he is bold and fearless enough to put himself unequivocally on record as being in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, with or without the consent of any other country. He is heartily advocating a return to the coinage conditions existing prior to 1873, at which time silver had the same right of way to the mints with gold, and since which time there has been a solemnly steady downward procession of prices, valuations and wages.

We note with pleasure also that Hon. 'A. S. Clay, the able and eloquent chairman of the state democratic executive committee, put himself clearly on record yesterday, in his speech at Madison, as being in favor of the immediate free and unlimited coinage of silver. Of course, everybody knew how he stood, but as chairman of the state committee. it is well that he shows that he does not know how to dodge. He does not shift or evade the question, but like the outspoken, fearless leader that he is, he is at all times ready to defend democratic tradition and go to the support of democratic principles.

The democratic campaign in Georgia, based on any other contention than that so eloquently defended by Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Clay, would be a rebuke to the southern senators and representatives who have so gallantly fought for the redemption of the financial pledge of the democratic platform, and whose course will be vindicated by the people. Neither Mr. Atkinson nor Mr. Clay is willing that the people should be hoodwinked, and that the party should sail under false pretenses.

Let the good fight go on! The success of yesterday's demonstration in every part of Georgia augurs well for party success, and promises a magnificent victory in October.

They Are Opening Their Eyes.

The presence of Hon. William C. Whitney, of New York, at a dinner party recently given by Sir William Houldsworth, was remarkable in that it was a gathering supposed to be friendly to the coinage of silver on equal terms with gold. Among those present were promient financiers and politicians.

Mr. Whitney acknowledged to those who listened to him that bimetallism was the traditional policy of the United States; that under it prosperity had ruled, and that 90 per cent of the people were really in favor of it. He did not go into details, however, as to how the remaining one-tenth, by political infidelity and false dealing with the people, had succeeded in demonetizing silver, and were the determined advocates of American financial subserviency to Great Britain. Like a man who had heard of the popular discontent of the people, however, Mr. Whitney is preparing to meet the inevitable. His idea of waiting upon international agreement was negatived by other statements made during the same sitting of those distinguished banqueters. It was stated that the city of London was opposed to bimetallism. Why? Because her financiers are the creditors of the world. It is to their interest to out and squeeze from the people of the United States, as elsewhere, the hest possible return for the money ey had invested abroad. In this skin ning of the American people they feel fortunate in having as allies the federal government itself. The merchants of gold standard. The office-holders who have fixed salaries, in fact, every interest-collecting octopus of the empire, is for the gold standard. To talk to them of an international agreement on imetallism would be the merest folly. The entire policy of England is directed in favor of her bankers, manufacturers and merchants. The other classes of the population have no influence what-

It is to be hoped that this plain reve lation which was made to Mr. Whitney will have its influence, and that he will make up his mind to be an American in politics, instead of a mere tag on the tail of the English financial watch dog. The merchant, the manufacturer and the usury collector control English finances; the laborer, the farmer and the home dealer of the United States have nothing in common with them. The declaration of our next governor, Hon. W. Y. Atkinson, that we must have the free coinage of silver now, of our own motion, and without awaiting the nod of some European monarchy, is true Americanism, and to it The Constitution invites the attention of Mr. Whitney and his inquiring friends.

A Good Suggestion.

In a casual conversation the other day one of the most prominent and successful manufacturers of cotton goods in the state suggested that it would b good idea to have a cotton mill in operation on the grounds of the exposition When the question of expense was suggested, the manufacturer smiled and emarked that that was a mere matter of moonshine.

His suggestion was unique, but his plan was simple. There are in this country a large number of manufacturers of cotton mill machinery, who would be glad of an opportunity to advertise their specialties in a practical way. The suggestion of the Georgia manufacturer was that these manufacturers of mill machinery would be willing to combine together for the purpose of showing their machinery in operation, and put up a cotton mill, small, but complete, and thus give mill men an opportunity of inspecting the improvements that have been recently made. The plan seems to us to be entirely feasible. It originated with one of the most practical men in the state. Such an exhibit would be most instructive and interesting and would attract wide attention. It would be something new in the way of an industrial display. If it is to be had the great exposition will

The South and Hard Times.

We observe with some degree of amusement that the eastern press has taken up the notion that the south is in a very bad way. The New York Journal of Commerce, which is not now edited by the wise old man who made it famous, dwells on what it conceives to be a very bad condition of affairs here, and contends that we will never have any prosperity here until we cease to protest against class legislation, until we cease to attack the trusts and combines, and until we make peace with the money power.

The truth of the matter is that there is more poverty, distress and idleness in the smallest of the New England states than there is in the whole south. If the eastern brethren have any cheap tears to shed they need not go far from home to find causes for lamentation. The south has had to take care of itself since the war. We have sometimes complained of the isolation caused by the sectional prejudice manifested in the northern newspapers. We have occasionally protested against the slanders which, in the name and behalf of political partisanship, have been scattered broadcast over the civilized world. But we have no doubt now that all this has been and will be for the best. In this way we have been spared the evil consequences of indiscriminate and harum-scarum immigration. We remain a homogeneous people. And there is still left for our young men a vast and profitable field of industry to develop.

Taking a large and placid view of the results, we are inclined to believe that providence has had a hand in all thisblinding the eyes of the partisans to the end that our own people might presently seize the opportunities that our undeveloped industries and resources offer.

The people of Europe have been taught by the northern newspapers to believe that the south is inhabited by organized bands of murderers and as sassins who go about their bloody bus iness by night and by day, and there are a great many people at the north. though the number is growing smaller year by year, who religiously believe that strangers and visitors in the south are assassinated for opinion's sake. There are a great many more who believe that northern republicans who settle in the south are socially ostracized because they believe in republican prin

These notions have been spread far and wide by men and newspapers that have the ear of the world, and all denials, even when made by northern men who have made their homes in the south, have fallen flat. We have some times thought and said that these tremendous slanders did harm, but we are not so sure now that the harm done is worth weeping over. Time goes by turns, and all things are set right in the end. It is true that immigration has been somewhat diverted from this section, but we are not sure now that this has not been a blessing in disguise. Our towns and cities are not swarming with anarchists and socialists, and the delay in the development of our resources is simply giving our own people an opportunity to train themselves to success fully undertake it. It is true that The Journal of Com merce bewails the existence of old-fashloned democratic ideas in the south, but we remember that these ideas made the republic possible. Jefferson was denounced for his democracy, but the principles that he advocated made the republic and will save it. So far as the south is concerned, it did very well last year and the year before, and it will do very well this don, for the same reason, want the as they ought to do, but, all things conyear. The people are not doing as well sidered, they are standing the strain and pressure of a hateful financial system far better than the people of any other section of the country. By comparison the farmers are prosperous. The value of their property has shrunk enormously and they will get but little profit out of the new cotton crop, but they have abundant food crops. They have already harvested heavy crops of wheat and oats, and they will soon begin to store away the biggest corn crop they have ever raised.

What is true of Georgia is mainly true the whole south, and the farmers of this state, instead of buying western corn this year will have corn to sell. They will buy less western meat than ever, and are altogether in a better condition to face the possibilities of the near future than any other part of our population. They will have little or no oney to spend with the merchants, and this fact will not tend to help business in any way, but, perhaps, after awhile, our business men will open their eves to the fact that low prices, brought about by the contraction in the volume of our standard money, tend to extinguish profits.

Don't Misrepresent Us.

Referring to the declaration of the Gernan bimetallists recently published in these columns, The Macon Telegraph

While our contemporary was keenly ob-servant of these points in the report and of its strength as an argument for bimetallism, was strangely blind to another point hich the signers were careful to make prominent by a special emphasis. ardently favor bimetallism, but they ex ressly stated that they do not favor and ttempt by Germany alone to re-establish it, but look to an international agreement as he only possible means by which that much desired end can be accomplished.

Why should The Constitution accept the conclusion of these German scientists that bimetallism must in the interest of civili-zation be re-established and reject with scorn the conclusion reached by the same men as to the only means by which bi-metallism can be secured? They are as nuch authority in one case as the other If their argument for bimetallism is sound and based on sufficient testimony, what rea-son is there to believe that their conclusion that an international agreement is necessary, held with equal tenacity reached after the same degree of patient research, is only worthy of ridicule by the political economists of Atlanta, Ga.

Admitting for the sake of argument that the German bimetallists arrived at the conclusion attributed to them, that international agreement is the "only' road to biemtallism. The Macon Tele graph fails to comprehend the position taken by the men whose names were signed to the declaration which our contemporary discusses, and which has already been published in full in these columns.

But The Telegraph is entirely wrong in its statement of the conclusion of the German bimetallists. Instead of declaring international agreement to be "the only means by which bimetallism can be secured," these eminent men, after reviewing the distressing effect of the demonetization of silver, concluded as follows:

A provident statesmanship cannot disdit silver and let it lose its value, all human foresight is to the effect tha the metal will be absolutely indispensable n the future.

The present crease in gold production which may be the last, is precisely the time to carry through an international system of bimetallism, as this can now be done without any fear that gold will feave the circulation or attain an agio. Those who prophesy a gold agio in case of bimetallism overlook the the fact that they thereby ascribe to gold scarcity and dearness too great to allow of sibly continuing the sole standard.

There is not a word in this conclusion to which any bimetallist can take excep tion. Everybody must admit that international bimetallism. • if possible would be a very good thing, and The Constitution certainly agrees with the German bimetallists in the conclusion that "the present moment * * is precisely the time to carry through international bimetallism." The time nevel was and never will be more auspicious for a movement of this sort than right now, but since the success of such a movement seems to be impossible, our position is, that rather than suffer lon ger the blight of the single gold stand ard it is the duty of the United States to take up the matter for itself and arrive at the best conclusion that can b reached by independent action. England has already announced that it will have nothing to do with the movement, and this conclusion on the part of that government is very easily explained when it is understood that Great Britain is the creditor nation of the globe to the extent of thirty billions of dollars. "Never," said Mr. Gladstone, "will England consent to doing away with the single gold standard so long as the res of the world is indebted to her in that sum."

The German bimetallists state noth ing whatever about international agree ment being "the only road to bimetallism." They simply say that now is the opportune time for such a movement, but after reading the horrible picture drawn by these wise men of the disas rous results of the single gold standard in Germany the inference is very clearly made that they are ready to arrive at any reasonable settlement that will restore silver to its function as a standard money, with or without the consent of England. It speaks well for the modesty and circumspection of these German economists that they never once pretended to be discussing this great question for the benefit of the United States. They did not presume to say what the attitude of this country should be. They discussed the question through German spectacles entirely, and the remedy they proposed was such as they thought best fitted to the position that Germany holds among the nations. Why does The Telegraph assume therefore, that The Constitution refuses to accept the conclusions of the German bimetallists? We accept them most heartily. Germany is not a silver pro ducing nation; it can hardly be called growing nation, for it contributes largely to the stream of immigration that was flowing to this country until the single gold standard made wages and prices as low here as they are in Europe. We think, therefore, that it would be unwise for Germany to undertake the rehabilitation of silver singlehanded. But the position of the United States, and all the conditions that touch the root of the matter, are entirely different. We produce the silver; we have a controlling influence on the commerce of the world through our cotton and food crops; we have unlimited resources and a boundless capacity for business growth and expansion. All these things we have in addition to the knowledge that the moment this country demonstra ted its determination to restore silver, Germany and the Latin union would re open their mints, leaving England to follow suit or to retain her present posi

We regret that The Telegraph betrays a purpose to take a narrow view of The Constitution's position .

Sensible Farmers.

The alliancemen of North Carolina are moving on the right line. They are going to build cotton factories in every available town throughout the state, and to do this they are raising money in monthly payments from the members and as these payments only amount to $1 each, they are easily made. When they have enough funds in hand to secure the building of a factory they announce themselves ready to receive proposals from any city that may desire its location, and the city offering the best inducements gets the prize.

This is a new departure for the farmers, but it is a good move, and if the idea obtains generally it will have good results to all concerned. These factories will benefit the cities where they are established, and will give the farmers their money back with interest. Many farmers, not only in North Caro lina, have a small surplus of cash on hand at all times, which can be profita bly invested in this way.

All that such a scheme needs to make it successful is judicious management. The North Carolina farmers are on the right line, and there is no reason why they should not succeed.

The Trouble of Governor Greenhalge. Governor Greenhalge, of Massachusetts, is not the first politician who has got into trouble by playing with secret political societies in order to win success at the polls.

For several years Governor Russell who was as near being a democrat as it is possible for a Massachusetts man to become, defeated the republicans. Last year, however, Greenhalge secured the republican nomination and was elected Shortly after assuming office it was as certained that he had won by an alli ance with the A. P. A. people. They called upon him to fulfill the un-American pledges which he had made to them As an honest man, under his oath of office, he could not do so, and, on the contrary, he appointed several Catho lics to office. The dark lantern conspirators thereupon informed him that they would meet him in his effort to se cure a renomination.

It is estimated that out of the 2,200 members of the republican state convention of Massachusetts that 600 will be A. P. A. men. That will not be enough to control the convention, but with several candidates in the field they will hold the balance of power.

While Governor Greenhalge is in an ugly predicament from having made promises to such people, his fight against dark lantern methods in politics will attract to him the sympathy of all frank Americans.

The announcement is made by the management of The Omaha World-Herald that Congressman W. J. Bryan, of Nebraska, has accepted the position of editor-in-chief f that well-known daily. He assumed ed itorial control of the paper on the 1st of September, and his management will, of course, bring it into general attention, not only to Nebraska, but throughout the country. Mr. Bryan is a bold and fearless writer, and whatever he says, either on the hustings or in the press, will attract the attention of the public. The World-Herald is one of the strongest papers in Nebraska. and under the able management of Mr. Bryan it will no doubt forge to the front as one of the most prominent molders of western opinion.

"There are several active candidates in the race for the United States senatorial toga, viz: Hons. Patrick Walsh, A. O. Bacon, L. F. Garrard and H. G. Turner. It is very difficult to choose between these able men and distinguished democrats, and we do not propose to endorse either of them, at the present at least, but we desire to say that we believe Hon. Patrick Walsh did his full duty the short time he has occupied this position, and that he has made a reputation that few men ever attain by even many years of service in the councils of our nation. Patrick Walsh is a whole-souled patriot, a true statesman and has reflected honor upon himself and his state by his brilliant record in the senate. We believe he has done more for the industrial south than any other one man. He certainly deserves the good will and support of all Georgians."

The presence in the city of a large number prominent railroad men made things live-about the Kimball and the Aragon esterday. The traffic men were here for the purpose of going before the state railnission in the matter which has een brought up by the cotton compress men in their application for a rate on compress cotton, while the transportation men were here for the purpose of a conference among themselves. In addition to the rail-roaders there were a number of prominent ompress men and altogether the hotels resented a busier appearance than they had since the meeting of the state conven-

Colonel G. Gunby Jordan, the new member of the railway commission, was at the Kimball. This case brought by a compress man is the first important hearing since his membership of the commission and his presence upon that body was therefore nature of an interesting event. Judge Fort was also here, having come up from Americus Monday evening. Neither gentle-man would discuss the matter which is now before the commission, naturally deeming it something to say about the political situa-tion in south Georgia. "Unless I am very much mistaken," said he, "you will find that the democratic majorities in our sec-tion of the state will be fully as large, if not larger proportionately, than they two years ago. Of course this thing o jority is a very uncertain quantity, but I find the populists have by no means as much enthusiasm as they had in the campaign, which resulted in their defeat by 70,000 majority. Many men whom they lead off in the last fight see the hopelessness and the senselessness of straying off from the democratic party and ss and the ser I believe there is no doubt whatever that good portion of them will come back into the democratic fold. If we gain in other parts of the state like we are going to gain in our section there is no question of a great big majority that will sweep Tom Watson and the other third party leaders off the face of the political earth.

Colonel John P. Shannon, of Elberton. Ga., the grand master of the Masons of Georgia, is just back from Topeka, where he went to attend the great Masonic gathering. "I have seen by the papers since my return," said he, "that the im-pression has gotten abroad that we went return," out there to try and bring the next conclave to Atlanta. That is entirely wrong. Nodon't like the impression to get out that the Georgians undertook something that they couldn't carry through, for that certainly is not our way. The fact is a good many of of populism out there are democrats who have just used that party to ride into office. As I was going up to the capitol just across the street from that building saw a sign, to which I called the attention of my populist friends and over which they had a good laugh. It was 'Pops on ice.' I told them that I thought that was pretty suggestive of the condition they'd find themselves in by the next election, and they acknowledged that did seem prophetic and they said they'd see to it that the sign was made way with as soon as dark came. Sure enough the next day it wasn't there." Colonel Shannon says that the most strik-ing thing which he saw in the west was at Fort Riley, where there is a great cavalry riding school. Some of the performances of the horses excel anything he ever saw in a circus. "Blessed is the Georgia farmer who has a lot of corn," said he. "They haven't a bit out in that country, and this year corn is going to be worth real money.

Mr. Bradford L. Gilbert, the well known architect of New York city, reached the city yesterday afternoon and with his wife is at the Aragon. Mr. Gilbert came to go before the exposition board and explain his plans for the exposition building. He is a very prominent architect in New York city and has done considerable work in this part of the country, a good deal of it for the Mexican National railway.

He is a profound stu-dent and it is said that there is not a lawyer at the Atlanta bar who has a more remarkable faculty for the thorough preparation of a case.

Mr. J. J. Spalding, the junior member of the firm, came here shortly after the cotton exposition. He has the proverbial Kentucky shrewdness, and is a man of splendid ability. The man who gets away with Jack Spalding, either in a law case or anything else, must be possessed with unusual keen-ness. The new firm takes its place at once among the foremost legal firms of Atlanta. Mr. Calhoun withdraws on account of the fact that his business connections require much of his time in New York.

Thus sings the versatile Stanton. The silver sun is all right up here, but the showers don't happen to fit. It is different down in Atlanta, where their picnices and barbecues have been more or less interfered with by summer showers.

This sort of poetry sounds well and has a cheering sort of influence on the readers of it. It expresses the feelings of the people and their hopes, too, and that is what makes it good.

SHOT THREE TIMES.

Dr. R. G. Jackson Has a Pearful Duel with a Negro Burgiar.

A TERRIBLE STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

Each Fired Five Shots and a Hand to Hand Tussle Ensued. THE BURGLAR ESCAPED OVER THE ROOF

on Hit in Four Places, and His Very Serious.

In a flerce struggle with a desperate burglar whom he had surprised in his rooms, Dr. G. Jackson, the prominent young necialist, was shot three times last night before 9 o'clock.

Bleeding profusely from dangerous wounds, weak from the terrible exertion and loss of blood, he staggered into the hallway on the third floor of the Hirsch uilding, where his office is located, and fell heavily at the top of the stairway. Attracted by the noise of the shooting and the crashing of the window through which the burglar made his escape a crowd of Whitehall merchants and others who were passing at the time rushed quickly to the

Dr. Jackson was lifted carefully into his m and placed on a comfortable lounge. Physicians were quickly on hand and everything done for the alleviation of his intense While this wounds were being Dr. Jackson gave dedirections to the detectives and described the encounter coolly and with deliberation never seen under such circumstanes. Afterwards he drifted off unconsciousness from the effect of

Dr. Jackson occupies two rooms on the third floor of the Hirsch building. The front room, which is larger than the other, s used as a bedroom. It is elegantly furnished and ornamented with many things of value. The other room, which is put to office use, is small, containing his surgical chair and the cabinet in which his instru-

ents are kept. Two doors enter into this room, one from bedroom and the other from the hall. Just opposite the door from the hallway is a low window opening upon the roof and etween the door and the window is a heavy portiere, behind which the baggage and othing of the doctor had been piled. It was a critical moment and the doctor He did not hesitate. With the flery dash and bravery which have always terized him he jumped to the table or the pistol. Quicker than the flash of his weapon he turned and fired. The negro was behind the curtain and it is thought that to strike him.

Exchanging Shots. Before the doctor could fire again and when he was blinded by the smoke of his own revolver the burglar gave a quick step forward, placed his pistol opposite the doctor's head and pulled the trigger. The ball struck-with fearful force, causing . Jackson to reel and fall backwards st the washstand. Taking advantage of his position the negro epped further up and fired again. The ball struck in the left hip joint and the doctor fell again. Then, with superhuman effort he raised himself. The negro had taken cover behind the curtain again and was firing at the place where he knew the doctor to be standing. At the same time Jack-son began firing and for a second there the physician sank to the floor and again rose up to fight his merciless antagonist. A second time the pistol descended and once more the doctor went to the floor, blood gushing from his head and body.

Like an enraged tiger the Burglar stood above his prostrate form ready again to strike. Jackson came up once again and succeeded in getting his arm around the man's waist. It was a struggle for life and with supreme determination, Jackson retained his grasp. The men tumbied about ard the burglar attempted to extricate his self all the while beating his pistol savagely against the doctor's head.

They had neared the window and were going at it wildly. At a sudden turn the pair fell against the glass which was crashed to pieces. They separated, the doctor reeling back toward the door with the burglar following.

Here the struggle was renewed again flercer than before. Thoroughly exhausted, Jackson was overpowered finally. The streaming blood covered his face and when the burglar left it was impossible for him to tell just which way he went. The doctor got to his feet and staggered to the staircase, where he fell again. Patrolman Braselton, Mr. Harry Durant, Dr. Love and several others reached the place as soon as possible and lifted the wounded man back into his room. He was thought at first to be dead, but it was only a slight fainting spell and he quickly recovered.

The Work of theBurglar. From the situation of the rooms and other circumstances which were brought our by the detectives and others who made the examination of the place, it was apparent that in entering the place the burglar came through the window in the room

The bottom sash of the window was down, as was the top, which had been lowered by the doctor for ventilation. In order to get into the room it was necessary for the man to climb over the top of the window. He had been in the place only a few minwhich the negro had piled up ready to carry away, were scattered about the whole room. Stretched on the Bed.

It was only a few moments before the rews of the shooting spread about the streets and a number of the wounded man's friends made their way to see him.

As they entered the door he was stretched

"Hello, boys." He said it in a voice al-most cheerful. "You never expected to see me like this, did you?"
"Come around here, 'Jarni,' and look at me. I want to know if I'm going to die."

He was assured that he was all right and seemed much relieved. Boys, tell them to catch the burglar. I want to lay my eyes on him just once

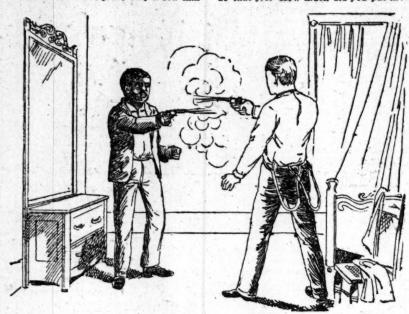

Was a Young Negro.

"The man who shot me," he said, "was a young negro. He seemed to be about eighteen years old, and was very black. I had never seen him before, but if they catch him I can tell him at a glance." The other ball was in the left knee joint, shattering sever-utes, as was shown by the fact that he had disturbed only a few articles. The drawers to the cabinet he pulled open. In one of these was the old pistol of Dr. Jackson. It was a hammerless, self-cocking 38-caliber Smith & Wesson. This was the first article the burglar appropriated, and he placed it carefully in his pocket ready for the fearful work to follow. It was this pistol with which the doctor was shot and will be used by the detectives as a valuable clue. After looking over the cabinet and several other things about the room the man lifted the curtain aside where the trunks were psed and began a careful investigation of the contents. He emptied the trunks and had a large heap of goods just ready to carry out when the doctor

Then followed the shooting and the desperate struggle. After he had beaten down the doctor for the last time and was ready to depart, the negro turned his tracks to the window. It had been shattered in the struggle, but most of the glass remained, and through this he leaped to the roof. It was about four feet to the tin, but he made the jump and a safe escape. Just where the man went after this there is a difference of opinion, as there are several places for escape from the roof, but it is generally thought that the man went down a fire escape in the rear of the Hirsch building. It was easy to make his escape here as the people were hurrying to the front of the building where the shots had

Searching the Room. Police headquarters was notified at once and a large squad of detectives and patrolmen responded at once. Captain Thompson was in charge and had every possible way of escape from the place guarded at once, as it was thought by many that the man was still hiding on the roof. Lanterns were secured and a large searching party covered the tin roof. Every chimney was examined and all the corners of the bui'ding looked into. Squads of police entered the different rooms in the building with the hopes that the man might have stopped on his way down to escape to con-

Every foot of the large roof was looked at but no blood nor sign of the man's presence could be seen.

The room in which the struggle took place was a scene of disorder and confusion. The cabinet was turned over, shattered glass covered the floor and the walls were dented with balls and smoked with powder.

The curtain was there charred and frazzled. If it had not been for the presence of mind of Patrolman Braselton a fire might have followed the shooting. As he entered the room in which the doctor was carried he noticed a bright light in the other room. Rushing in the found that the curtain was in flame and his first impression was that the alarm should be turned on. A young man who is employed in High's came to the rescue and dashed several pitchers of water on the flames. It was a close escape. The curtain was perforated in many places where the balls which had been fired by Doctor Jackson at the negro made their way. A ball had also shattered the door which led to the office room. About this there was some discussion by the men who took the case in charge. According to the statement of the doctor all the balls had been fired inside the room. The way the however, showed that the shot had evidently been fired from the outside. It is thought that this was the last shot fired by the negro just before he left his position near

"I walked to the other room and prepared the place. I heard some noise in the other room, but thought that it was my office boy, who had stayed up there late, and I didn't pay any attention to it. My pistol was in my hip pocket, and to keep it from falling on the floor I put it on the table

As I turned around I saw the negro behind the curtain. "He came out and told me to put both hands up. I told him 'Never!'
"If I had just held up my hands all this rouble wouldn't have been brought on, but I grabbed for the pistol and I fired as soon as I could. Of course the man had the advantage of me, as he was behind the curtain all the time and I couldn't see him.

"Gentlemen, I don't say it boastingly, but I don't think there are many men who can beat me shooting when I am all right. That negro didn't give me a chance at 'him, though, and if I could have had only one good shot I would have killed him dead. As it is I think that I struck him.

During the fight we struck against the window and the glass broke. I got away from him and he followed me out into the hall. Then he tackled me again and we had it there until he got the best in his talk.

"Say, boys, can't I see my dog? He's out there in the hall, somewhere, I think."
Dr. Janigan brought the dog in the room, and as soon as he saw it Jackson broke down for the first time.

"Gentlemen, excuse this, but that animal is the best friend I have, and God knows I hate to part with it." He was told that it was best that he should rest, and agree after much persuasion, to let the dog be carried away from him. Something About Dr. Jackson.

IT IS PRESIDENT HOWELL. He Was Elected President of the Gate City Guard Last Night.

The Gate City Guard members, old, young and middle aged, met last night in the armory on Peachtree.

Nearly a year ago it was decided that the company should have an organization in which all classes of its members, the active, the retired and the veteran, should have a part. To make the organization perfect it was thought best to have a president of the corps, and it was Colonel Albert Howell who was elected to that position last night without opposition, and with out a dissenting vote.

Colonel Howell was a member of the comas a Gate City Guard. Since the war he has taken an active interest in the good and welfare of the company, and his election was a merited compliment, as the old company has no more devoted friend or galfust as good a president as he made it a fighting member during the war.

There were nearly one hundred members of the company present, and the meeting was an interesting one. The auditorium, which has been suggested and discussed, was talked of again and plans are now being prepared for it. It may be said on good authority that it will not be long before the erection of the finest military building in the south will be undertaken by the Guard. Several new members were admitted last night at the meeting. Captain Burke and President Howell are now determined to make the Guard what it once was-the leading military organization of the south,

AS TO THE PLANS.

Exposition Directors Spend the Day Studying the Drawings.

ARCHITECTS EXPLAIN THE DRAWINGS

No Estimate of the Cost Has Yet Been Made-No Matters of Detail Have Been Arranged.

The members of the exposition buildings and grounds and executive committees are likely to learn a good deal about different stles of architecture before they finish the task which they now have in hand. All day yesterday they were in session istening to architects explain their drawings, and while it was an arduous work to some extent, it was also very pleasant and entertaining. Mr. Tom Morgan and Mr. Bruce, of Bruce & Morgan; Mr. Walter Downing, Mr. Chamberlin, of Knoxville; Mr. Harrison Bleckley, of New York, and Mr. B. L. Gilbert, of New York, were those who were called before the committee, and each in turn gave at some length his ideas in explanation of the plans which he had submitted. The committee seems to have narrowed the contest down to these five gentlemen and the firm of Hutchinson & Hammond, of Mobile, though there has been no formal exclusion of the other plans and suggestions and the members of the committee have not, by any means, made up their minds to exclude all the others when

t comes to the final decision. During the entire day the members of the buildings and grounds committee were present and some of the prominent members of the executive committee were there also. The examination was made in President Collier's office, and as each architect was introduced, his plans were displayed on the wall or on the desk in a prominent mannar. Then he would take them up building after building, explain the general feature of the architecture and go into details concerning the special features of each building. In response to questions from memions as to the different materials that he used, and would go into details concerning the prices according to his estimate.

the styles of architecture differ, and there is considerable difference in costs. The committee has not been able as yet to figure to any extent on the cost, but it is their intention to aim at substantial and artistic buildings, rather than cheap ones. Today the committees will meet again, and it is probable that they will devote several days yet to this work. It has not been decided whether the work shall be confined to only one architect or whether different architects will be employed, as was the case at Chicago. All these matters of detail the committee have not reached as

That Is the Charge Made Against Dr. Mr. Park Morrill, Atlanta's Weather Ob-Young, at Columbus.

ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT OF NEIGHBORS | NOT KNOWN WHERE HE WILL BE SENT

He Went from Atlanta to Columbus a Few Months Ago, and Was Rather Well Known Here.

Dr. F. M. Young was arrested in Columbus yesterday on an ugly charge. He is a young physician who went from Atlanta a few months ago to enter the practice of medicine in the town of Colum-

While here he was known among the doctors of the city, and had an office over Tyner's drug store.

There was always something queer about him, according to the recollections of the physicians here, who recall him. They say he was not familiarly known to any of them, but that they all knew of him. None of the local physicians here seemed surprised, therefore, last night when they heard of Dr. Young's sensational career in Columbus, the charge having been made against him that he treats his wife in a brutal manner, and that he was trying to starve her to death, when the authorities of the law arraigned him in court.

The following dispatch to The Constitution tells of his career in Columbus: "Columbus, Ga., September 4 .- (Special.)-

A considerable sensation was created here

A considerable sensation was created here this afternoon by the arraignment in Justice Lennard's court, of Dr. F. M. Young, of this city, on the charge of brutal treatment of his wife.

"The case was carried into court by a peace warrant issued at the instance of a near neighbor of Dr. Youngs.

"Dr. Young came to this city several months ago from Atlanta, built up a very good practice here, and has been regarded by the people as an excellent gentleman and a first-class physician. He was highly respected by a majority of the people of Columbus whose acquaintance he had formed, and hence his arrest, owing to the character of the charge, was quite a shock to almost the entire community.

"It is alleged that besides various other ed, and hence his arrest, owing to the character of the charge, was quite a shock to almost the entire community.

"It is alleged that besides various other ways in which the doctor has treated his wife, that he is now trying to starve her to death. Witnesses swore that he treated his wife most cruelly when she was ill, and then would not provide food for her and her children.

"There was some talk today of the organization of a vigilance committee to wait on the doctor in regard to his outrageous conduct towards his family, but the case has been taken in charge by the authorities, and if the allegations are true, he will be severely punished.

"It is said that Dr. Young's mistreatment of his wife is because of her refusal to make over to him some property which sae possessed before her marriage to him. The family resides on Rose Hill, in one of the best portlons of the city, and until the last day or two the matter has been kept very quiet."

server, to Be Promoted.

He Is Expected Home Today-Thought That He Will Be Transferred to Wash-ington-At the Custom House.

.The star weather man of the country, Mr. Park Morrill, who has been noting the weather at Atlanta for a space of three years, is to receive a handsome prom which will take him away from this city. He will get one of the best positions in the government weather service, and it is extremely likely that he will be stationed at Washington. There was some talk of his being sent to New York, and thus ousting Farmer Dunn, the most talked-about observer in the country; but it is regarded as unlikely that he will be tra

red there
Mr. Morrill is expected to reach home today. He has been resting at Emmetts burg, Md., since standing his examination at Washington. He has an unexpired leave lasting to September 18th, but in view of his prespective promotion it is expected that he will come here ahead of time to straighten up his affairs here.

There has been no definite announces of the change, but it was understood be fore the examination occurred that the men who made their mark would get superior berths in the service. Mr. Morrill has had the examination in view for several weeks as have had the others who entered the competitive examination, and made up his mind to come out with distincti than two weeks in this city upon his re-turn, remaining here only long enough to wind up his private and official affairs.

It is regarded as extremely probable that he will be succeeded by Mr. C. S. Gorgas, the acting observer, who is a most capable man for the place. It is not that Atlanta is not regarded as good enough post for Mr. Morrill that the change will be made; but Atlanta is not of as much importance in a weather way as two or three points in the country, and for this reason Mr. Morrill will be sent to a post that requires wider knowledge of the work

Mr. Morrill came to Atlanta three years ago. He is a native of Vermont, and is a hard student and of fine intellect. He has steadily worked his way up since coming to his post here. It is with regret that he will leave Atlanta.

Short on Rain.

The weather men say that nature owes the country at large a lot of rain. Georgia has had her share—in fact, too much of recent days—but the general distribution has not been equitable in some sections. Texas is, perhaps, the greatest sufferer in this respect, while New Jersey and Illinois have experienced a wonderful lack of rain. The weather men are not to blame, however.

THE CLOSING TONE WAS STRONG

The Large Visible Increase Made a Weak Opening in Wheat, Though the Close Wast Higher Than Saturday.

NEW YORK, September 4.—Opening dealings at the stock exchange were characterized by firmness, and even Sugar, which has been under the hammer for some time back, developed a little more strength. Closing Stock Review.

NEW YORK, September 4.—(Foreign and Domestic News Company, By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.)—The stock market was strong and buoyant in final dealings. A protracted buying movement started actively all along this line, in which Sugar and Gas, which had been sluggish in the early part of the day, participated.

The advice in Sugar was accompined by the report that on Treasurer Searles's return to town, a meeting of the board will be called at which the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent will be declared on the common.

The other Grangers did not respond to the rally in St. Paul, except Burlington and Quincy, which was in good demand to cover shorts. Among low priced stocks General Electric and Missouri Pacific loomed into prominence on good buying for both accounts.

The buying of Western Union was continued for strong parties. ا ا ا ا ا ا

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

NEW YORK, September 4.—Summary Hubbard, Price & Co.'s cotton letter: The increased demand for spot cotton in Liverpool advanced the quotations 1-32d in that market, and caused a firmer tone here than we have seen for many days. This improvement is stated to be due to the receipt of American orders in Manchester for goods for shipment to this country, and upon the light offerings of cotton for immediate delivery in England. The better feeling abroad and the continued improvement in the cotton goods trade brought about an advance in the market up to noon of some 7 to 8 points from the close on Friday last. The close of the market was at about the best prices of the day, despite the fact that receipts were larger than had been anticipated, and some of the southern markets were easier in consequence. Crop reports are becoming more mixed, and it is believed that the government weather crop bulletin tomorrow will show a further deterioration in the crop, which will sustain the advance in prices made today, and the feeling here is less bearish than it has been of late.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter. NEW YORK, September 4.—(Special.)—
There was a distinctly better feeling in the cotion market today. Liverpool sent us no encouragement, and the receipts were liberal, but the crop accounts were generally less satisfacotry, and as the day wore on the desire to buy seemed to be greatly and the receipts. less satisfacotry, and as the day wore on the desire to buy seemed to be general. January cpened at 6.81 and advanced with scarcely any reaction to 6.88. The close was very steady at the highest price. The bulls have gained many new recruits lately, and the bears are evidently a shade less confident. It looks now as if the shorts will hardly be able to cover their ventures without paying higher prices. The strength of cotton in the afternoon was helped somewhat by a sharp advance in the stock market. Western Union and the Grangers were the features, the former closing at 91% and St. Paul at 67%.

The Sun's Cotton Review. The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, September 4.—Cotton advanced 6 to 9 points, then reacted slightly, but closed very steady with sales of 62.400 bales. The price since last Friday advanced 12 points, but lost most of this and closed barely steady. Spot sales at Liverpool were 10,000 bales today at a rise of 1.32d, and closing in buyers' favor. In Manchester yarns were quiet and steady; cloths quiet.

Silver in London declined 1.15d. Now.

Silver in London declined 1-16d. New Orleans advanced 1 to 3 points. Spot cotton here was steady. Sales 100 bales for export and 405 for spinning. Southern markets were generally quiet, and there was a decline of 1-16c at Charleston and St. Louis, and ½c at Baltimore. New Orleans was firm, and most other markets were steady. Norfolk quotations were revised and lower by 3-16 of a cent. Savannah sold 1,300 bales and New Orleans 400 bales. Port receipts yesterday were 9,254 against 4,899 last week and New Orleans 400 bales. Port receipts yesterday were 9,254, against 4,869 last week and 3,992 last year; today 6,777, against 4,381 this day last week, and 4,435 last year; thus far this week 19,199 against 11,468 thus far last week. Generally fair weather was predicted for the cotton belt during the ensuing twenty-four hours with south and southeasterly winds in most sections. Houston received 5,454 bales, against 4,409 this day last week, and 2,647 last year.

Today's features: Reports of injury to the crop in Texas, Mississippi and elsewhere, some advance in Liverpool, the favorable state of the dry goods trade and some indications that the market had been oversold caused nervousness among the shorts and prices easily advanced, though the weather today was clearer at the south and the rainfall for the two days past has been comparatively light, while the receipts at the ports and interior towns are quite heavy.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. CHICAGO, September 4.—The visible supply statement with its increase of 2,178,000 bushels of wheat stocks was a surprise to everybody. What were thought to have been extravagant estimates placed the increase as 1,750,000 bushels, and few people looked for more than a gain over last week of 1,500,000 bushels. The figures when they were bulletined produced a weak feeling and led to some selling, which carried prices to the lowest point of the day. Before that time and after the effect had worn off there was a steady, almost amounting to a firm, tone to the market, the strength in corn being of such a pronounced character as to communicate itself to wheat. The early news was also of a nature to sustain values. December wheat opened at 56%c, declined to 56%c, advanced to 57%c, closing at 57c—%c higher than Saturday. Cash wheat was steady. Prices showed no essential change.

Corn—The Missouri state report on corn, showing an increase of 28 points in the condition from the previous one was a great help to prices in this market today, but it did not bear fruit until the last hour, when its true worth was better appreciated. In brief, it states that one-half the entire area of corn in that state had been cut for fodder, and that 80 per cent of the whole remained in the southern counties and would do the same. The market was strong all day, but the decline during the last four hours was more emphatically so than at any other period of the session. The elevator men and speculators were the buyers early, but later the demand was general. May corn opened from 52% to 52%c, advanced to 54%c, closing at 53%c54c—3%c11c higher than Saturday. Cash corn was ½c lower.

Oats—As far as they went, they were in sympthy with corn, but the amount of business transacted did not permit of a very wide range of prices. The visible supply statement would probably have caused an easier feeling, had it not been for the supply statement would probably have caused an easier feeling, had it not been for the superior power exercised by the corn market. May closed ½c higher than Saturday. Cash oats were firm. Prices showed no change.

Provisions—The strength which marked trading in provisions came from corn today.

CHICAGO, September 4.—Considerable interest was manifested in the wheat market early, which opened at a slight advance over Saturday's close. The strength to a certain extent emanated from corn, which was strong on bullish state reports. On passage there was a decrease of 744,000 bushels, Cables were discouraging. The market relapsed into a somewhat stagnant condition and prices gradually declined to 56% for December, aided in the downward course by the big increase in the visible supply of 2,178,000 bushels, nearly 500,000 bushels more than expected. Indian and Baltic shipments were 2,880,000 bushels and American 3,420,000 bushels, making the total weekly European supply 6,200,000 bushels, about 700,000 bushels less than the previous week. Total exports of wheat and flour equal 587,000 bushels. Towards the latter part of the session the market became more active and gained strength, closing within %c of the high point.

Corn—On the large receipts, 848 cars; prices at the start were a shade under Saturday's close, but as this was four days' work on four main roads and the Missouri, Iowa and Illinois state crop bulletins were very bullish, Iowa saying half of the entire acreage has been cut for fodder, shorts started covering and prices quickly advanced %c. Foreign advices were encouraging and show higher prices abroad. On passage, corn decrease 222,000 bushels. Total clearances 16,000 bushels. While the visible supply even shows an increase of 114,000 bushels it apparently had no effect, as the market held strong throughout the session. New York reports a strong market on corn. Missouri shows a decline of 2 points in one month. Other states which have suffered more seriously will show a nearly ruined crop.

The market on oats was firm and quiet, and although there was a fair demand offerings were barely sufficient and prices at the close were ¼@½c in holders' favor.

Hog products were strong with a good local and outside demand. Hogs at

HE CAME TO GRIEF. AT THE PARK TODAY. TWO CLAIM THE PLANS

Liberties with a Lady.

And Yesterday Judge Calhoun Gave Him a Dose of $25 and Costs—His Sanday School Teacher in Court.

If the stern censure of the recorder, emphasized by a stiff fine, has any influence, Q. Lewis, an oriental laundryman, will never again attempt to take liberties with

It was a unique scene in every detail when the case came up yesterday afternoon, showing up the serio-comic side incidents in an interesting way and calling forth a list of entertaining characters embracing representatives from three nationalities, in which a duteous Sunday school teacher, a trembling Chinaman and a handsome married lady stood out most prominently. The married lady was aggrieved because the Mongolian made an effort to hold her hand and pinch her cheeks when she called for her husband's clothes the afternoon for her husband's clothes the afternoon before. The Chinaman was frightened be-cause he thought his conduct was misinter-preted, as he claimed to have meant no in-suit. The Sunday school teacher was so-licitous, as the oriental had proved a good subject for home missionary work, and it was her fear that he had fallen from

The lady, Mrs. Henry Brock, appeared before the recorder and gave a full and unhesitating account of the affair from her

"I live at 62 Plum street," she said, "and "I live at 62 Plum street," she said, "and yesterday afternoon I started out to see my cousin, who lives not far from Sharp's drug store, on Marietta street. I made the visit and was on my way back home. As I passed the place where this Chinaman keeps a laundry I happened to think that my husband had asked me to get his clothes for him, as he wished to go away that night. I did not have the laundry ticket with me and it was a good distance home, so I decided to stop in and ask him for the clothes, telling him that I would send the ticket later on. "I went into the place and asked for the laundry. That Chinaman was there, that other one over there, who they say his partner. He took the package down is his partner. He took the package down and asked me if I would recognize it witnout the ticket. I said that I would, but he opened it and began counting the collars and cuffs. He seemed slow about it and looked at me curiously. Before I knew what he was about he leaned over the counter and took hold of

"He said: 'That is a pretty ring you have on, lady.' I snatched my hand away and started to go, when he took my cheek between his fingers, this way, and made a funny kind of noise with his mouth." Mrs. Brock blushed deeply, and was almost too much embarrassed to continue.
"I paid him for the laundry and went and told my husband.'

As counsel for the Chinaman appeared Mr. Will Moyers, who gave Mrs. Brock a pretty trying examination.
"Did you go back to the place with your husband?" Yes; I went back to show him this man, so that he could have him arrested."

"Didn't your husband give him a good all for his conduct, and as soon as she resented it the Chinaman stepped back and said: "No, no, no! Excuse me, lady." There was a ludicrous court scene when the partner of Lewis, who was the only witcame to testify. He could not speak , and an interpreter was called out.

who jabbered away in the Chinese jargon at a lively rate. According to his statement his partner did not touch the lady. She called, he said, for the laundry without any ticket and they had some trouble in finding the bundle. He did not see Lewis caress the lady. The statement of Lewis was to the same effect.
"No touchee cheek. No touchee han'. Say Ladee, takee laundly.' See? No; me no hit ladee."

In defense of the Chinaman his Sunday school teacher came to court to testify as to his general character. She was a pleasant-faced middle-aged lady, who said that the Chinaman had been in her class about six months. To her Lewis appeared a very model scholar. He behaved well in the presence of ladies and had been to her house several times, when he behaved very nicely. Mr. Moyers, in his final remarks, said that if it was true that the Chinaman acted with if it was true that the Chinaman acted with the idea of insulting the lady, he thought that he should be fined; "but," he continued, "these people are foreign, and it is hard to interpret their actions and meaning. Mr. Brock, who is an employe of the Southern railway, asked that the case be concluded in the recorder's court, and acting upon this request the judge imposed a fine of $25 and costs, which was paid later in the afternoon by some of the Chinaman's friends. the Chinaman's friends.

DR. VAN GOIDTSNOVEN IS WILLING. Says He Is Willing to Make Regular

Reports to the City. Dr. E. Van Goldtsnoven, one of Atlanta's most efficient ward physicians, believes that every servant of the city should be ready and willing to give an account of his stewardship to council. In speaking of the matter he said:

"I am reported as having complained of the new ordinance which requires the city."

the new ordinance which requires the city physician to make a monthly report of their medical attendance to the poor of the city. This statement is incorrect, I have always held that a city officer should at all times be ready to give an account of his stewardheld that a city officer should at all times be ready to give an account of his steward-ship, and for several years I have addressed to the general council a quarterly report of my medical attendance to the poor of the second ward, until I discovered that little or no attention was paid thereto, and I quit. I certainly have shown my consistency with my previous views on this question by complying with the new city ordinance, which requires a monthly report, and I availed myself of that opportunity to complain to the general council of another ordinance which makes a city physician a coroner, inasmuch as it requires him to coroner, inasmuch as it requires him to hold an inquest 'as it were' whenever a resident of his ward dies suddenly or without having received any medical attention, and to issue a death certificate upon inquiry. the Boys Will Line Up on the Track-Some Splendid Prises Rave Been Offered Pledmont park will be the scene of some great races this afternoon when the finest riders in the south will compete in a number of events for a fine list of prizes.

The list of entries embraces some of the fastest men who have ever appeared in this city. Among those who will ride is Isaac Baird, the southern champion. Baird, who was at one time the champion of Ireland, is undoubtedly one of the fast est class A men in the country. Last year he repeatedly defeated Kid Wheeler, who has made such a fine record in France this season. Baird has won innumerable races this season and comes to Atlanta to show this season and comes to Atlanta to show the boys how to win.

George Quinn, of this city, will probably be Baird's aptest pupil. Quinn has been doing some winning himself this season, and is now in great shape for riding. He holds the track record of 2:22 at Piedmont park, and Baird will run away from him, if at all, with difficulty. f at all, with difficulty.

The contest for supremacy between these two men will be exciting. They have never met, and each can be depended upon to do his utmost to defeat the other.

Kendall Spear, the wonderful boy rider, will meet Talbot in a match race. This will surely be a pretty contest. Spear is probably the coming champion of the south, but he will meet a good man in Talbot who has been training with Quinn, and who is in fine riding trim.

Spear will also go a mile against time. He will use pacemakers and will attempt to lower Quinn's track record. If he is properly paced Spear is very likely to succeed in the attempt. This event will be one of the best features of the races. Another interesting race will be that of the Bicycle Messenger Company's boys.

The rivalry between these boys is intense and will resulf in their doing some fast riding in this race. A match race has been arranged be-A match race has been arranged between Gus Castle and Paul DeWitt, the only representatives of class B who live in Atlanta. This will be a half-mile dash, and will make a pretty race, as the men are thought to be very evenly matched. The betting on this race is slightly in Castle's favor, on account of his longer experience than DeWitt.

The programme, which is made up of ten events, is a most interesting one, and is as follows.

HOW THE HORSES RAN.

St. Michael Beaten by Candelabra at Saratoga.

New York, September 4.—In the second race at Sheepshead Bay today, St. Michael was the choice, and he was heavily backed by the talent. When the race was run he did not seem to have a bit of his speed with him, and he finished the race badly beaten, while Candelabra won from Discount by vigorous riding on the part of Doggett, who clearly outrode Hamilton. After the race, Simms, who rode St. Michael, was called up by the stewards and then the owner was questioned. No official action was given out, but it was said that it is improbable the horse or the owner will be allowed to race again. The trainer is Mike Daly, brother of W. C. Daly, who is ruled off Sixth race, one mile, Havoc (jockey and weight omitted), 6 to 5, won; True Penny second, Brioso third. Time, 1:48.

At Latonia Park.

Cincinnati, O., September 4.—It was an even break between the talent and the bookmakers at Latonia today. Three favorites, one second choice and two outsiders carried off the purses. The dump of the day was in the handicap. Money poured in on Oakwood at 3 to 5, but Oakwood was beaten before the horses entered the stretch and Selika, the outsider, came out under drive and won by a length. The track was good, the attendance was large and the betting very heavy.

A Chinese Laundryman Tried to Take | Bicycle Races That Will Be Well | A Roanoke Firm Says the Alabama Street Bridge Plans Were Theirs.

HE WAS PROMPTLY ARRESTED THE FULL PROGRAMME OF EVENTS MR. M'DANIEL GOT PAY FOR THEM

Claiming Pay for the Work-What Mr. McDaniel Says.

Those plans and specifications for the Alabama street bridge submitted by Mr. Henry T. McDaniel and accepted by the city are likely to bob up serenely again. And this time the American Bridge and Iron Company, of Roanoke, Va., will be in the bobbing, as well as Mr. McDaniel and the city of Atlanta.

It's about $250 that the city paid Mr. Mc-Daniel as a part payment for the plans and specifications for the extension of Alabama street that brings the matter before the general council and the public again. It will be remembered that something over a year ago the city council advertised for plans and specifications for the extension of Alabama street, offering as a reward $500 to the party who should submit plans acceptable to the city, one-half of the amount to be paid when the plans were agreed to by the general council and the other half to be paid when the bridge committee and the city engineer approved the plans. Among those who submitted plans was Mr. Henry T. McDaniel, once city engineer of Atlanta and now a candidate for that position again. With his plans Mr. McDaniel showed that the plans were considered the most feasible by the American Bridge and Iron Company, of Roanoke, Va., and that they would carry out the construction of the work on the plans at a very low figure. The entire lot of applications was considered by the city council and the plan subnitted by Mr. McDaniel was adopted and he was paid the $250. Later the papers went to the hands of the bridge committee, and before work could be thought of or a contract for the bridge be awarded, it was found that the city could not spare the money for the work during the year. Later Mr. McDaniel made application to the general council for the additional $250 of the prize money for the plans. The council declined to pay the amount, declaring that the plans did not suit the desires of the bridge committee and the city engineer. It stood in that shape when the council of 1883 dissolved, and when the present council was organized Mr. McDaniel renewed his claim for the money, Several times the matter was before the city council and on one ter was before the city council, and on one or two occasions Mr. J. C. Jenkins appeared as his attorney. The council finally consented to pay the money and the comptrol-ler wrote a check for the amount, payable to Mr. McDaniel.

But before Mr. McDaniel could collect the money Mr. Jenkins laid claim to $80 of it as attorney's fees. The city found two claimants for the money and finally disposed of the matter by paying the money nto court, where $80, the amount Mr. Jenkins claims, still remains awaiting a decision of the court as to its ownership. Since the money left the city and was receipted for by Mr. McDaniel another claim ant for it has come in.

The new claimant is the American Bridge and Iron Company, of Roanoke, Va. Soon after the money was paid to Mr. McDaniel, or rather left the city for the court to decide whether it should go to court to decide whether it should go to Mr. McDaniel or Mr. Jenkins, Mr. Phil Harralson, chalrman of the bridge committee, received a letter from Charles C. Wentworth, the president of the American Bridge and Iron Company. The letter contained an order written by Mr. McDaniel and directed to the city of Atlanta. It read:

"Atlanta, December 7, '83.—City of Atlanta: Please pay C. C. Wentworth two hundred and fifty ($250) dollars, being the balance due for plans for Alabama street extension prepared by H. T. McDaniel and the American Bridge and Iron Company and accepted by the city.

In the letter which brought the order Mr. Wentworth wrote:

"As I note by the papers that you are still working on the Alabama street bridge, I beg to enclose an order signed by Mr. McDaniel in my favor for the balance of the amount payable on the acceptance of the plans prepared for same.

"The plans were, of course, ours, he doing nothing at all in the preparation of them. We were assured by him that they were accepted, and, seeing the same in the papers, had no reason to doubt his word. He also assured us that on said acceptance he had been ordered by the mayor to bring us to Atlanta to sign the contract for the work, a construction that can be put on the advertisement calling for plans and bids.

"As our plans met every requirement at a reasonable cost, there appeared to be no reason why the programme should not be carried out. We left the plans with McDaniel subject to your orders, and have no doubt that when you are ready to build the bridge, they will be in requisition." In the letter which brought the order

Immediately after receiving the letter, Mr. Harralson consulted the city attorney Mr. Harraison consulted the consultation about the matter and an answer was sent to Mr. Wentworth informing him of the to Mr. Wentworth informing him of the fact that the city of Atlanta had no knowledge that any one held such an order, and that the money, $500 in all, except the $80 per the now tied up in court, had been paid to Mr. McDaniel, to whom the city had every reason to believe the plans belonged.

Mr. Harralson has not yet heard from the bridge company in response to his last let-tel explaining the situation of the city relative to the payment of the money to Mr. McDaniel and the contract with him. Mr. McDaniel has preserved all of the correspondence which has passed between him and the bridge company, and when asked about the claim the company made to the $250 drew out a large package of let-to the $250 drew out a large package of let-ters, and, with a pleasant smile, said:

"Yes, I have been informed that the bridge company has laid claim to the money, but the company has no more right to it than you have, notwithstanding the fact that the president, Mr. Wentworth, holds, or has held, that order signed by me for or has held, that order signed by me for the money.

"You see, it was this way: Mr. Went-worth came down here last December to see about the contract for the bridge, and from the city of Atlanta to which we had a written claim signed by yourself. As you know, we have done all that we agreed to and more, too, relying on your assurance."

This letter was signed by Charles C.

This letter was signed by Charles C. Wentworth, president of the company. In another letter Mr. McDaniel has, Mr. Wentworth says: "I was trying to fix the things so as you could get the rest of the $500 for the plans, as I though this would be a more satisfactory way of doing."

The probabilities are that the bridge company will lay claim to the $20 and ask the council to pay it, and if it is not paid a suit will be brought against the city. The tenor of the correspondence indicates that they think they have the contract for the building the bridge, if it is built.

There may be some sensational developments in the matter within the next few weeks.

THE MOSQUE OF OMAR Described by Rev. J. W. Lee, Formerly of Atlanta.

St. Louis, Mo., September 5.—In his last sermon, in St. John's church, Rev. J. W.

St. Louis, Mo., September 5.—In his last sermon, in St. John's church, Rev. J. W. Lee thus discussed the Mosque of Omar: The square upon which stands the Mosque of Omar contains thirty-five acres. Here stood the court, the palaces and the templer of Solomon, the temporary and inferior temple built by Nehemiah, and the gorgeous and magnificent temple built by Herod. The rock, sixty feet one way and fifty feet the other, over which rises the dome of the Mosque of Omar, is the most interesting spot in the world. Here, according to tradition, Melchisedek offered sacrifice; here Abraham was about to offer Isaac; here Jacob saw the ladder leading up to heaven, here was the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite; here was the site of the "altar for burnt offerings for Isaael," upon which David sacrificed; here was the attar of the temples of Solomon, Zerubbabel and Herod; here Mohammed prayed, declaring that one prayer from this spot was worth a thousand elsewhere, and from here Mohammed passed heavenward on his mysterious steed, All Borah.

The mosque which surrounds this historic rock is octagonal in form, each side measuring sixty-seven feet. Colored marbles arranged in the most elegant and intricate patterns enter into the composition of the lower divisions of the wall. The upper wall contains fifty-six pointed windows, filled with stained glass surpassing in depth of color and brilliant beauty any perhaps to be found in the cathedrals of Europe. The plers separating the windows are decorated with glazed tiles of brilliant colors and various patterns. A narrow corridor, about thirty feet wide, runs round the entire building inside, having eight piers and sixteen Corinthian marble columns. A second corridor, also thirty feet in breadth, runs round the building inside, with an interior diameter of ninety-eight feet. The dome is sixty-six feet in diameter and is supported by four great stone piers and twelve old Corinthian marble columns. This is the most striking and picturesque structure in Jerusalem. Every square

The Insurance Companies Doing Business in Georgia Doing Well. Georgia is one of the few points to which the entire country looks for insurance

The laws of this state require fire insur-ance companies doing business in the state to make semi-annual statements to the governor, and these statements contain not only the figures showing the capital interested in the business in Georgia but throughout the entire country. These re-ports are sworn to and filed, and serve to how the reliability of the firms. There are forty-nine companies doing business in the state, and of these twenty paid out during the first half of the present year more money than they received. Jute is dying hard. Congress recently took off the duty on it, and added to this blow is the great influx of sugar cloth covering, which will be offered to the planters. A most vigorous fight was made against sugar bag cloth as a covering for cotton. It is well known that, instigated by the jufe trust, a notice was sent out through the south intended to stop all farmers from buying any other covering than jute. This ciring any other covering than jute. This circular was exposed in The Constitution, and the hand of the jute combine was seen in it. It was annunced that cotton covered in sugar cloth would not be accepted by the cotton exchange, but a meeting of the New York cotton exchange exploded this glaring story. It will be offered in large quantities

There Has Been No Going Back in

WHAT ACTING OBSERVER GORGAS SAYS

There Has Been a Steady Upward Ten dency for Six Weeks Past-The General Report

The rosy prospect of bountiful crops ch has been shining before the farmers of Georgia for six weeks past continues to eral favorable outlook and if, during the east week, there has been any change it has been for the better.

Acting Observer C. S. Gorgas yesterday ned his weekly bulletin which is of great interest to whoever is interested in the condition of crops: "The farmers have little cause for com-laint in the general condition of their crops at present. The past week, with its decrease in rainy days, has, on the whole, een favorable for the improvement of such ps as are approaching maturity, while at same time allowing, for the harvesting the winter supply of fodder. It is tru hat cotton appears to be from ten to fif-teen days late and rust, rotting and sheding are evidently increasing; but probably litions are no more noticeable and it is hoped that the season will ulti-mately end with an average crop of the staple. Corn still continues to flourish, and he yield will be larger than that of years archwest section of Georgia. The weather ately has been all that the farmer could The plentiful showers of last week, ollowed by a comparatively dry season, rith plenty of sunshine, has been of great enefit to all maturing crops. The farmers have taken advantage of the favorable weather and pushed their fodder pulling rapidly toward completion. Cotton is open-ing fast, and is looking well in most places. The prospects for a good pea crop are very rood; also, sweet potatoes. A large area was sown to turnips this season, and they

The prospects for a good peak copy are a good; also, sweet potatoes. A large area was sown to turnips this season, and they are reported as "looking fine." In fact, all gardens are in flourishing condition. Corn has in no way deteriorated during the week and prospects of a large yield are as promising as ever.

"Fine growing seasons have characterized the weather in the nothern counties of the state, and farmers have been busy saving fodder, and it is thought all upland fodder will be saved this week, provided the weather remains fair. The acreage in cotton is perhaps, about one-tenth less than last year, but if everything continues favorable, the yield will be almost equal to that of '93. The early planted cotton is beginning to open, the boils are rather large and the weed is growing rapidly for the season. Good reports continue to come in relating to corn. The acreage is larger and the yield will be much greater than it was last year, and a great many farmers say the crop will be "the largest gathered in many years." Melons, both as to quantity and quality, are superior to those of last year. Peas and sorghum are all looking well, and 'all garden vegetables, except cabbage, are in first-class condition. Cabbage it is thought will be almost an entire failure.

"In northeastern Georgia the weather during the past week has been generally favorable for the improvement of crops. Of rainfall there has been less than during the preceding week, but as yet there is no complant to lack of moisture. Corn is still continues to hold its own, and there is little, if any room for improvement in this important crop. Cotton, although still about ten days late, is in fair condition, opening in many localities, and a few far ners have begun picking. The staple is reported as rotting in the boll in many fields. Peanuts, field peas and sweet potacoas are doing well. An average amount of sorghum will be made up this season and the quality will be excellent.

"Fodder pulling is in full blast in the tottors are doing to the season

well. An average amount of sorghum will be made up this season and the quality will be excellent.

"Fodder pulling is in full blast in the wostern section. Fine weather has now set in for cotton. It is still doing well and in many parts of this section has stopped growing and will make an average crop. A late fall will be very good for the cotton crop. Corn still improves as the season is hastening to a close, and the farmers are all rejoicing over the present condition and the prospects for an abundant yield. The late corn is doing well. Minor crops are coming along nicely. Pastures have put on their green coat and grazing is as good as the Georgia farmer can wish for. Potatoes are doing well.

"Reports received from the central counties are, if anything, a little more favorable than those of the week previous. The fore part of the week gave nothing but cloudy weather and rain, but the last four days have been shiny and warm, which was very badly needed by cotton. The short staple has about the same acreage as $3, but the yield will be short and the condition is poor; but the Sea Island, or long staple variety, is of larger acreage, with a fair average yield, which stood the excess of rainfall much better and the condition is very good. Blight and rust are now doing considerable damage to the weed, and in some localities it is shown years. Potatoes, ground peas and cane, as well as field peas, are all better than last year. In fact, all garden truck is in good condition. The hay crop is promising.

There is apparently no change in the general condition of the crops of the eastern counties over that of a week ago. The weather has not been uniform over this section. In some places rain would improve the crops while in other parts sunshine is needed. Cotton picking is in progress and the crop, on an average, is a fair one. There is complaint of cotton rusting and shedding in places where too much rain has fallen. Most of the foder has been pulled and housed in good condition. The corn crop the crop, on an average, is a fair one. Tagre is complaint of cotton rusting and shedding in places where too much rain has fallen. Most of the fodder has been pulled and housed in good condition. The corn crop still remains the best of all. Potatoes, peas and pinders are doing nicely. Sugar cane is in good condition. Rice fields are looking fine. They are supposed to be as good as can be found anywhere this season. Fall gardens are looking good. The weeds have been cut off and the minor crops are springing forward at a rapid rate while the weather is favorable.

"From the southwestern counties come less favorable reports than last week. The weather has been rather rainy, resulting in an increase in the rotting and shedding of cotton. With the present dry weather these conditions may change for the better. For rice the weather has also been too wet and it is not curing well. Sugar cane on uplands is fine. Some farmers are now busy cutting hay. Ground and field peas are slightly short of an average crop. Turnip seed sowing is now occupying the attention of many farmers.

"It rained most every day during the rast."

"It rained most every day during the past reek in the southern section, and as a con-"It rained most every day during the past week in the southern section, and as a consequence farmers were retarded in cotton picking. Cotton has fallen off considerably on account of too much rain. This is especially so in the case of the Sea Island, or long variety. The corn crop is good, but not so go d as in some more northerly counties. Sweet potatoes are in good condition, but a little late. Corn, rice and peas are in very good condition. Gardens have suffered somewhat on account of an excess of moisture.

The wet weather in the southeastern unties during the past week has not oved to be of much benefit to the crops, they had already received too much rain.

a few points everything was drowned t, and crops are looking bad. The acree of cotton is not so great as last year, the quality is very good. Rice and corn e plentiful and in fine condition. Melon ising has proved a success in the southstern section. Late crops are in good ape. It is too wet to cut hay.

THINKS IT AN OVERESTIMATE.

unleutt Gives Reasons for the Faith Which Is in Him.

Editor Constitution—Sir: In a recent aumber of your paper you published an interview with a leading warehouseman, in which he estimates the present cotton crop as promising to yield 2,000,000 bales in excess of any former crop. This impresses me as an extraordinary estimate. I do not think the facts will bear it out. If he is right, our farmers should know that and prepare themselves for the lowest prices on record. If he is wrong, the spinlars, buyers and speculators should be acre.

If each of these stalks should average twelve bolls, now mature, then we would have a prospect of a good yield—say half a bale per acre, or 8,250,000 bales—but we have no such crop of bolls matured, or likely to mature.

mature.

I have gone into a number of fields and counted all bolls large enough to have a promise of maturing. I have selected good-looking fields and the better spots in these fields. There are thousands of acres below what is given here. Here are the figures as counted by myself and others on different counties:

Number Number Per Stalks.

The conclusion I arrive at, from my examination of the condition of the cotton crop, is, that the present crop is below an crop, is, that the present crop is below an average crop.
Could you get your correspondents in various sections of the cotton belt to try this method and give us the result? It will require an average of from fifteen to twenty bolls per stalk to make the crop your interview predicts. This is a matter of vital importance to the farmers and business men and railroads, in fact, to everybody. Let us have the truth, not guess work. The weed is large and the prospect deceptive in this section. Let us know how it is generally? Yours truly,

JAMES B. HUNNICUTT.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST.

For the past several days the weather conditions in Atlanta have re stationary, and a light haze has pervaded the atmosphere. This haze is caused by the extreme dryness of the air which ena-bles the atmosphere to become charged with dust and vapors, which preciptibly diminish the transparency of the air, and cause a condition, similar to that which is cause a condition, similar to that which is observed, during "Indian summer." From present indications the weather is likely to remain generally clear and warm for at least a few days yet. The weather at 7 o'clock p.m. last night was generally clear, except at a few places in the northwest and in Florida where it was cloudy and rainy. Light rains fell during yesterday at stations situated in Florida, North Carolina, Arkansas, Kansas, Michigan, Virginia and Missouri. In the eastern portion of the latter named state, the railfall was quite heavy; over one inch having fallen at St. Louis in less than twelve hours. The distribution of heat was very regular and the warmest weather was in the vicinity of Texas. There during the day the mercury reached 36 degrees, while the highest in Atlanta was only 35.

Interesting Figures Concerning the Big Slump in Tax Returns.

COMPARISON OF THE RETURNS

With Those of Two Years Ago-Twely Up Wonderfully Well.

Captain Charley Furlow, of the comptroller general's office, has made a study of the returns for taxation as reported by the tax receivers for 1894 and shows some interesting facts concerning the big decrease. The only item in the whole list which shows an increase is that of stocks and

As will be seen by the table, the greatest decrease is shown in the improved lands; next comes city and town properties; next money and solvent debts, and next cotton manufactures. for railroads and street railroads. The Columbus Southern is still under arbitration and until the return is decided upon it will be impossible to state the exact decrease in the railroad business, but it is certain that in proportion the decrease is very much less in this kind of property than in any other. Placing the Columbus Southern at the same figure at which it was returned last year, the returns for railroad propertles is about $94,000. In street railways with one road to hear from, the decrease is over $323,000. It is believed that this will be brought down to about $300,000. There is an increase in the number of polls, white and colored, of over 12,000. The white polls for 1894 are 179,716, as compared with 172,154, an increase in whites of 562. Of colored polls there are 114,374, as compared to 109,864, an increase of 450.

There are fewer defaulters reported this year than last by 715. This, however, signifies nothing, as in many instances the tax receivers pay little attention to getting up their defaulters' list.

THROWS A LIGHT ON ALL SUBJECTS ENCYCLOPÆDIA

Prime Necessities

A Lighthouse is a prime necessity for a ship in a dark and dangerous sea.

The Encyclopædia Britannica is a prime necessity for a youth embarking upon the sea of life. It is in truth a lighthouse, and compared with other works of reference is as far superior to them as the modern electric light is to the oil lamp that the mariner used to depend on.

There is no department of human knowledge so dark, no mazes of human investigation so obscure, that it cannot light them, and whatever a man's walk in life may be, whether as professional man, artisan or laborer, the intricacies of his special vocation need such illumination as is furnished in this incomparable work. A good

Roncador Reef

Would have preserved the historic Kearsarge from destruction a few weeks ago; and many a man could steer clear of the reefs and shoals that threaten his health, happiness and success in life if he would set up in his home the great lighthouse, the Encyclopædia Britannica.

The daily expense of a good lighthouse is enormous, and this expense continues forever; the daily outlay to secure the Encyclopædia Britannica "lighthouse" is only 10 cents, and after you have once paid the low subscription price, the "light" costs you nothing thereafter.

Place this great guide in your home that it may be a beacon light to your children and yourself, lighting up the way to success.

There is no time like the present to act.

Because a good thing cannot be done too soon.

Because if the books are of value to you, every minute you are without them is a loss of that value for that time. Is it not? Because the best terms and prices can be made now.

cellecting buckles, says The Commercial Advertiser. They prefer a new buckle to a box of bonbons or a bunch of violets, and when presents are not numerous their own allowance diminishes with startling rapidity. The dainty summer shirt waists are in a measure responsible for the buckle craze. They require a belt and the belt requires a buckle.

The silver buckles are the most popular They are long and narrow or round, and much ornamented. Some are of filigree, while others are plain or oxidized. Buckles of black enamel, inlaid with silver or gold, are effective on a delicately tinted ribbon belt. The gold buckles are beautiful enough to warrant the price at which they are sold. One represents a gold noop, around which a snake has twined his body. The eyes are glistening with emeralds Plain gold buckles have the owners' mono gram engraved upon them. Among the newest silver buckles are those inlaid with pale blue enamel. Delicate buckles of tortoise shell are also seen this year inlaid with gold or enamel. The buckles which adorn the tennis belt are sure somewhere to show a racquet. A new buckle to be worn with a yachting gown is of Roman gold shaped like an anchor, with bronzed cords coiled about it. A dainty buckle at-tached to a white ribbon belt is formed of a wreath of blue enamel forget-me-nots.

Jewel boxes made especially for buckles are now being manufactured.

As a rule, female Anglomaniacs are wise enough to avoid British modes of dress. It is all the more distressing, therefore, a writer in The New York Press, to see what rapid progress the English bun is making in fashionable favor. At first, casuobservers concluded that the tall, well ted in an awkward lump on the back of their necks, must be foreigners over here on a visit. It scarcely seemed possible that the New York girl, noted for her sleek, smartly combed head, could ever consent to such odious disfigurement. But, alas! after encountering one and then another shop riage and car, there was no room for doubt eft. New York has accepted the English coiffure, and it only remains to be seen whether our women are able to mitigate its ing on the subject something of the bun's construction. Women with soft and abundant hair have very little difficulty in giving it the correct expression. They draw a fine white part from crown to brow, and then with the comb divide off long, thick locks on either side of the face. After these are curled and waxed they should be softly rolled toward the head, allowed to droop slightly over the upper tips of the ears, and then caught back into the rest of the hair, which is hid in a tail an inch or more above the nape of the neck. The next thing is to pin a tiny circular strip of padding where the hair is tied, pull out evenly to cover this roll, tuck all the ends under neatly and envelop the whole in a fine net as near the color of the wearer's hair as possible. The object of the coiffure is to simulate as nearly as may

A popular dance at Bar Harbor this year is the Amsterdam, a stately and graceful dance, which begins with the minuet movement and then changes to a step not un-like a schottische, gradually ending in a waltz. It is a most charming spectacle after the wild gallopings that during the last few years have been called dancing. "Is marriage a failure?" is a question that is again agitating the feminine world. One observant woman at a recent discussion, had this reflection to contribute: She said that, although young men often deciare that married men tell them that the responsibility of a family is so great that they would not take the step again were they free, yet a widower invariably remar-ries, except when it is indisputably grief for his wife that restrains him. Otherwise there are few, indeed, who would not hasten to resume the marital yoke. Certainly, she added, this looks as if marriage were not so bad for the man, at any rate—as is sometimes hinted.

A quiet home wedding occurred on Tuesday evening, at the residence of Hon. W. H. Malone, of Villa Rica, Ga., the contracting parties being Miss Rosa Knox and Mr. George B. Malone, Rev. A. W. Williams officiating. Miss Knox is well known in Atlanta, having spent several weeks this summer visiting the family of Capt. E. M. Roberts. She is both beautiful and accomplished and made many friends while in our city. Mr. Malone is the junior member of the firm of Pritchett, Malone & Co., and is considered one of Villa Rica's stanchest young business men.

They left immediately after the ceremony for an extensive trip through the north, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends

The board of managers of the woman's department of the exposition at their meeting yesterday in discussing committee work de-cided that every one whose name had been placed upon a committee should be notified of the fact by the chairman of the committee on which her name is found. Further-more, that members of committee should be notified of all committee meetings to be held, through the daily papers, and if any member fails to be present at three consecutive meetings of her committee, without explanation or excuse, that fact will be construed as a refusal to engage in the work and her name will be drouped the work, and her name will be dropped from the roll. This was thought necessary in order to reduce the number of commite members to an actual working basis. In short, there are to be no honorary or ornamental members, but all are expected to take an active part from the beginning, to be entitled to a share in the honor of having wrought whatever measure of success that may be achieved in the end. This refers to the local committees, under the management of the woman's board, and not to the county and state representatives.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lee, at their residence, 310 Whitehall street, have with them Mrs. Lee's cousin, Miss Alexina Evans Murdock, of St. Augustine, Fla., who has gained some prominence in the ranks of descriptive and versatile writers, and is well known to the readers of The Boston Home Journal and other society papers, as "Alique." Miss Murdock has spent the past two months in the mountain resorts of Georgia on line of Southern railway, and comes to observe progress as understood in Atlanta for her winter's work, to be done at her former hore in Columbia, S. C.

Mr. Russell Richards has returned to the city after spending the past month at Huronia Beach. Mich. with his sister, Mrs. W. B. Penfield, of Detroit.

Miss Amelia Strauss, a most beautiful and accomplished young lady of Columbus, Ga., has returned home, after a short stay in Atlanta.

Miss Evelyn King, a charming young lady of Macon, who has been visiting Miss Alice Mae Massengale, on Capitol avenue, has returned home.

The petition of the cotton compress men makes out the case, and asks the railroad commission of the state to take a hand in the squabble that has been stirred up between them and the railroads by the determination of the latter to cut the rate of compression from 10 cents to 7 cents per

Such a cut would be a great loss to the cotton compress people and they have or ganized to fight it to the bitter end.

Several meetings having been held, attended by representative compress men from all sections of the south, the work of organizing an effort against the railroads has been pretty well rounded off, and consequently the compress men go before commission with minds made up and with their case plainly laid out.

It leaked out that the railroads would claim that the simple compact between them and the individual compress owners was not a matter that the rallroad com mission could handle or would handle, at best, since it was no public issue.

When this was heard by the compress men they decided apon a policy that would make the question such as could come within the province of the commission. They at once proceeded to make out their petition for a differential rate, taking with it the idea of freight rates.

"You see," said one of the leading compress men, in explanation last night, in the Kimball house lobby, "the railroads have been paying us a certain per cent of what they got for freight on compress work, because they could more cheaply and more conveniently haul compressed cotton than uncompressed cotton. Now, then, if they can haul it more cheaply compressed, then isn't it to the people's interests to have it compressed? And isn't it the scope of the commission to handle such matters?

"Take, for instance, the rates of freight from Atlanta to Savannah. The rate is 43 cents per hundred on cotton, and out this the railroads have been paying 1 cents per hundred to have it compressed If it were not compressed could the roads haul that cotton for 43 cents per hundred? Wouldn't they charge more freight?" Such are the claims in the petition for differential rate of compression. Such were the points advanced by the cotton compress-men yesterday before the railway commis-Mr. J. D. Turner, president of the South ern Association of Cotton Compressers, re-cently organized to fight this proposed cut by the railroads, was a witness in the case, testifying that it is a well known fact that railroads can haul cotton far more cheaply compressed than in great bulky bales. He said that the bulk of the freight uncompressed would cause a great increase n the number of freight cars required to handle the business and that each car would be an additional cost to the roads, paying mileage on through lines and run-ning at great cost on local lines, Several other witnesses testified along this line the chief tendency of the arguments being to show that railroads handle cotton with far greater ease ressed than uncompressed. what will be the argument of the railroad this morning, when the matter will be taken up again by the commission, is not

Mr. A. R. Lawton, of Savannah, is in the city, and will appear before the commis on behalf of the railroads, being specially ergaged by the Central railroad. Mr. Comer will also be present to uphold the interests of the Central.

Mr. Sol Haas, the president of the Southern, will be on hand and traffic men from every section of the south, representing all the leading lines of the section, will be present. The case is one that has a great deal of interest in it for the compressmen, the railroad men and the public in general. The commission will open session promptly at 9 o'clock.

IN THE OLD CAPITAL CITY. The Parsonage Aid and Home Mission

Society Meets Today. The Parsonage Aid and Home Mission Society meets at Milledgeville today. This is an organization of the Methodist church, belonging to the north Georgia conference, and is composed of many of the leading and influential members of the the leading and influential members of the church. The purpose of the society is to render practical aid and help to the various pastors of the conference and to encourage the work of home missions.

Quite a large delegation of ladies from the Methodist churches of this city will leave Atlanta for Milledgeville today. Mrs. E. P. Chamberlin and Mrs. W. A. will be, perhaps, as many as eighteen or twenty in the party.

The society will be in session at Milledgeville for several days and a large amount of business will be transacted. AT THE EDGEWOOD MISSION.

Delightful Entertainment Arranged for Next Friday Evening. A delightful entertainment has been arranged to occur at the Edgewood mission next Friday evening.

It will consist of a literary and musical entertainment, beginning at 8 o'clock, and the best talent in the city has been secured. Refreshments will be served after the ex-ercises are concluded and also in the af-ternoon as an introduction to the literary feature of the evening. This little missio is one of the strongest young organiza tions in the city.

"The Hustler" Tomorrow Night at the Grand. "The Hustler," Davis & Keogh's merry farce comedy, will play an engagement of one night only Thursday at the Grand. "The Hustler" is not an entire stranger to Atlanta theatergoers, as it was produced here two years ago to a large and well-pleased audience. The comedy is replete with new songs, dances and up-to-date specialties. Several of the old favorites have been retained, and many new and attractive features will be seen during its present tour.

The part of the Hustler will be taken by John I. Turney, whose splendid reputation insures a great interpretation of this very funny character. All the other members of the large caste are artists of merit, and the play will go off most merrily in their hands. Harry Watson, as a German comedian, has no equal on the American stage. His dialect is simply great.

"The Hustler" is conceded one of the best farce comedies on the road today. It pleases every one; making friends everywhere.

Happenings of Interest to the People of | The Cotton Compressers Heye Taken | The Board of Education of Decatur Can Do Nothing.

A Peculiar State of Affairs Regarding the Proposed Public School Bys-tem in Decatur,

Decatur will have no free schools the present term, although they have been voted for and the board of education had completed every arrangement to inaugurate them Monday.

The board of education of the quiet little suburb, is may be stated, is such in name only.

was not to free public schools that Decatur children went, but to the long established schools that have existed for years, The board of education watched the procession sadly enough-the sight rendered all the sadder because they knew that their hands were tied. The board has traveled a rocky and un even pathway from its inception to the present. It was conceived amid the very strongest opposition, and it had no more than sprung into life when its strong young hands were tied by the law. How even be guessed. Monday was the day set for Decatur's free school system to begin. A number of progressive gentlemen had planned to inaugurate this system so as to give free edu-cation to the entire population of the splendid little town. The movement has been under way for a year or more. It was agitated in a quiet way for several months before the gntl-men most deeply interested in it formulated any definite plan of procedure. Finally they determined upon an election, and their proposition seemed to meet with the cordial en-dorsement of a majority of the people of

Dr. Mason, the mayor, and the members of the town council, were practically unan-imous for the free school idea, and an election was ordered. As the plans of the free school advocates matured and took shape, the opposition grew stronger. It was or-ganized and perhaps the hottest fight ever waged in Decatur resulted. The result of the election is an old story. The free school people won by a good majority, and everyhing seemed plain sailing.
But the opposition did not give up, even in the face of the preparations which the mayor and council made to inaugurate their system of schools the first Monday in Sepember. A board of education was elected, consisting of Messrs. Brassell, Ragsdale, Mason and Swanton. The board immediately made ready for work.

free school the DeKalb County Academy, an educational institution which has been in existence for a great many years. With the shadow of this action resting over them, the opponents of free schools took out an injunction to restrain the board from opening school last Monday. It was set for a hearing on last Saturday, the in-tention being to have a decision in the matter in plenty of time to allow the board to go ahead with their plans in case a favor able decision was reached. But as has al ready been stated, Judge Clark is in Macon at the bedside of his brother, and the matter could not be reached. So, it seems that Decatur will have no so, it seems that Deatur will have no free schools for the term which begins Monday. The injunction may come up for a hearing at almost any time, and when it does there will be a warm fight over it. Both sides are ready for a lively battle, but at present it appears that the anti-free school people have won a temporary vic-tory. They feel that they have certainly defeated free schools for this term, and believe that they will be able to prevent their The bill of injunction recites many grounds why a permanent restraining order should be granted. One thing that is alleg-ed is that out of the one hundred and twenvoting for the sci

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 3, 1894. A Goodbuyer, Allover, Ga.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of the 1st instant to hand. Our line of Fall Goods are all in, and we would be more than pleased to show you our assortment. As in previous seasons, our line is very extensive, embracing all the Latest and Desirable Fabrics in the market. The most popular fabrics for business wear are black, blue, brown and Oxford mixtures in Cheviots, Worsted Cheviots and Homespuns. These can be worn in either sack or cutaway coat. Forhalf-dress unfinished worsteds, vicunas and cheviots. Can be made in either cutaway or double-breasted frock. Blacks and blues will, of course, be the most popular shades. The trade seems still very favorably inclined to Clay Worsteds. It is almost impossible for us to go into minute detail in describing the various things to be worn, but if you can find time to call on us we can show you a Complete Assortment. The Regent Coats are still very popular, as are long single and double-breasted sacks. When it comes to a question of price, we feel sure that we can satisfy you and your friends. We are showing a handsome line of Cheviots in all the desirable shades that we make in SUITS TO ORDER for $16. These goods at the price will astonish you. For $20 and $25 we can build you either a Business or Dress Suit in any style of coat; goods to Suit Your Taste. We Show a Splendid Line of All-wool Trouserings for $5. Should you or your friends find it inconvenient to come to the city, we can mail you a Fashion Plate, a Complete Line of Samples, Tape Line and a Simple Code of Rules for Self Measurement. We assume all risk of fit. 10c in stamps to defray mailing expense. Thanking you for past favors and trusting we may be able to soon serve you again, we are

He is now an occupant of the Fulton county jail, and will remain there until he can be transferred to the Milledgeville asylum. The business of the court of ordinary will continue uninterruptedly for several days, and a large amount of business will be transacted.

Groves Resound with Oratory in Henry Clay's District.

The Race of Orators Not Extinct, but There's a Warm Fight on for His Shoes-The Fight Against Breckinridge.

Henry Clay's home in Kentucky, known as Ashland, gave its name to the seventh congressional district. It has always been represented in the lower house by an orator, one whose renown has passed far beyond the confines of his own district. Henry Clay's voice has been heard in nearly every hamlet in that district, and old men love to tell the younger generation of the glorious speech of "Young Harry of the West."

West."

Following him have trod a long line of brilliant talkers, men who could sway the multitudes by the witchery of voice and manner.

Will Breckinridge be re-elected?
Today the air is filled with the resonance of at least three famous orators, battling for the suffrages of the Ashland district, each hoping to be selected as a successor to each noping to be selected as a successor to the immortal Clay.

One who listens to the burning words of these men, no matter what his views of tiel fitness for the position sought, must admit, and in admitting feel pride in, the splendid oratorical efforts in this age when we are wont to look back to an older gen-eration for the glories we think denied to this we are wont to look back to an older generation for the glories we think denied to this.

Whence comes this wondrous power, this ability to enwrap the brain of a listener with a web as securely as if enchained? Doubtless a natural talent gives grace of style and forceful address, but he is weak, indeed, whose polished sentences bear naught but platitudes. "Thrice armed is he whose cause is just," but he must not deal in metaphor, simile or argument except he be prepared by study and feel the ground solid beneath his tread.

What better preparation for such public service can be made than that which comes from years of daily communing with the best thought of the profoundest thinkers of the world?

That is within the reach of every young man of today, and the Georgia youth may well feel proud that so many of them have already been placed in touch with these master minds of the world through the Encyclopaedia Britannica. This has been made easy by the liberality of The Constitution in placing this greatest of all reference libraries in their hands at remarkably low introductory rates, and permitting them to pay for them at the rate of only 10 cents a day.

Georgia has hosts of young men who have native ability alone that carried these national characters to the eminence they have enjoyed, but the taking advantage of and a preparation for any opportunity that might occur.

and a preparation for any opportunity that might occur.

The wave that carried Henry Clay to eminence and renown also carried Daniel Boone to poverty and obscurity. There is a wave passing over the state of Georgia today that will carry hundreds of young men to distinction and perfection in their chosen vocations. It is a wave of progress and education. It is the movement for home libraries which has found its highest expression in The Constitution's Encyclopaedia enterprise.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have when taken for dyspepsia, diz-ziness, pain in the side, constipation and disordered stomach.

Chickasaw Coal and Coke Co.

I offer to my friends, the citizens of Atlanta and the coal emrchants of this and other cities the above coal at wholesale or in carload lots. It is No. 1 grate, steam and blacksmith coal. I have burnt it and considerit equal to any bituminous coal I ever used. It is very hard, does not slack, no clinkers, little dust or smoke; all will burn to a white ash. For economy and comfort I solicit a trial. One firm in Memphis contracted last season to take 200 tons per day; also one in New Orleans 125 tons per day. It was retailed at prices equal to Pitisburg N.o. 1 coal. I wish agents in other cities to sell this coal by the carload and retail, having four railroads I can ship over, freight the same. The company owns the mine and ships direct. The price of this coal will be very low to suit these, tight times, for cash, or credit to the 1st of the following month, with bank references.
